Mum Farm Blooms With 3,000 Varieties During Fall Season

In 1958, Harold Kreider and his wife, Esther, planted some mum cuttings beside their chicken house. When they began to cross pollinate the fall flowers, people from near and far came to admire them. Their hobby turned into a thriving business with more than 3,000 varieties now planted in their fields located on a Lititz farm. The story about a visit to the Kreider Farm can be found on Page B-2. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

Burdette Named 1990 Livestock Man

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Livestock Association (PLA) has named a veteran extension livestock specialist to its Livestock Hall of Fame and dedicated a plaque honoring all winners of the award.

In a ceremony at the 34th annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), Lester A. Burdette, extension professor emeritus at Penn State, was named 1990 Livestock Man of the Year. Due to a prior commitment, Burdette was unable to attend the program.

A photograph of Burdette, which was unveiled during the program, will be added to the new Hall of Fame plaque, mounted on the east wall of the small arena in the Farm Show Complex. The large red-and-green unit features individual photos of other winners of the award.

Many of the previous winners attended the dedication.

Burdette, currently a resident of the Huntingdon County community of Pennsylvania Furnace, holds bachelors, masters, and PhD degrees in animal husbandry from Penn State University.

After Army service, he was an assistant agriculture agent in York County from 1957-1958 and extension livestock specialist at Penn State from 1958 until his

Eastern Milk Pays Profits

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative paid out $1.2 million in profits to dairy farmers in the form of cash bonuses over the past fiscal year, co-op officials announced at Eastern's annual meeting on Sept. 27.

That payout is the largest since the co-op started to use profits for ongoing bonuses, Eastern President Lewis Gardner said.

In 1987, he said, the board of directors decided to return profits monthly to member farmers in the form of cash premiums, rather than

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The message farmers have for consumers is complex and not emotional enough to be attractive.

But Stephanie Peters, representing Dupont and the Ag Council of America, told farm leaders at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC) last week that science is on the side of agriculture and consumers, and the media is responding to facts and taking a more balanced approach.

"Agriculture is, by far, the most efficient and successful renewable industry," Peters said. "We need to correct the flow of misinformation and comfort the American public by putting credibility into the science part of our message. We need to demonstrate the technological benefits to the public and communicate facts about the existing safety mechanisms that are in place. We need to stimulate pride in the American agricultural system and simplify the message so consumers can understand and believe our reports."

Peters said the Ag Council of America has sponsored the Food-Watch Program to address food

N.Y. & Phila. Frozen Eggs

Oct. 5, 1990

Prices were generally unchanged though asking prices and majority of sales at higher levels. Trading is spotty as buyers are cautious and chose to await further market developments prior to making firm commitments. In some instances breakers are adjusting schedules to avoid using higher priced raw materials. Floor stocks for the most part were sufficient for current needs.

OPINION

National 4-H Week

October 7 - 13 is National 4-H Week. 4-H is the Cooperative Extension Service's dynamic, nonformal, educational program for today's young people. The program combines the cooperative efforts of youth, volunteer leaders, state land-grant universities, federal - state - local governments, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The mission of the Cooperative Extension system in conducting 4-H programs is to assist youth in acquiring knowledge, developing life skills, and forming attitudes that will enable them to become self-directing, productive and contributing members of society.

The 4-H Pledge is important to all members...

I pledge: My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service, and
My Health to better living, for my Club, my Community, my Country, and my World.

The 4-H Pledge is an enduring symbol of the devotion generations of America's young people have given to the 4-H program. Its words embody the goals of 4-H. The Pledge is the heart of a very special union -- the union among 4-H members, who learn and grow through 4-H programs; the staff, both volunteer and Extension, who make 4-H a reality for young people throughout the nation; and the large and growing family of 4-H supporters and partners who make it possible.

The Pledge is the measure by which 4-Her's test their efforts to become the very best they are capable of and to give, through 4-H, that best back to their clubs, their communities, their country, and their world. The support of private sector partners, recognizing and rewarding their efforts on county, state and national levels, reinforces the enthusiasm and dedication of 4-Hers throughout the nation as they pursue their goals.

4-H is the world's largest youth organization, And we believe the interchange between rural and urban youths in 4-H clubs across America helps close the communication gap between these two segments of the population. Keep up the good work.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Evaluate Farm Records

The 1990 cropping season is about over and soon it will be time to summarize your farm accounts and be reporting to the IRS. In addition to the need of good farm records for tax reporting purposes, I'd like to suggest these farm records be used for future farm planning and in making major farm decisions.

When time permits and as the outside work winds down this fall, it is a good idea to spend some time in your office and do some "pencil pushing" regarding the most profitable parts of your farming business. Your records of success or failure of the various enterprises are the best guide to future expansion or termination.

To Understand Natural And Biological Control Of Pests

The concept of Natural and Biological control of pests is not new. Farmers have been practicing it for several decades. They have disrupted the normal life cycles of pests by rotating crops and by incorporating crop debris into the soil.

Scientists have been breeding and selecting new varieties of crops that are either resistant to, or more tolerant of a variety of pests. Over 20 years ago, parasitic ways had been released to prey on the alfalfa weevil, and the need for farmers to rely on chemicals to control this pest has been eliminated almost completely.

New biotech procedures, such as genetic engineering and tissue culture, are helping scientists speed up development of new control measures. Farmers also are concerned about food safety, environmental quality and health. They prefer not to use chemicals on the food their families eat, or the crops their herds consume or that which they market, if other effective, safe and economical alternatives exist.

Thus, the need for integrated pest management (IPM) exists, where chemicals serve as a back-up to natural control measures.

To Store Corn Carefully

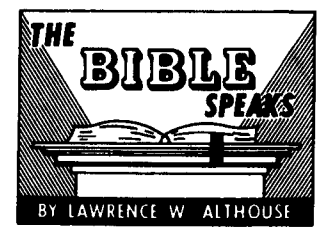
Corn harvest for grain is a very important crop for most farmers. Therefore, good corn storage is very important. It should be protected from the weather given proper ventilation for drying, and then protected from rodents. This latter menace is one that needs more attention on many farms. Mice and rats like to make their homes in corn cribs and storage places when given the chance. Make an effort to eliminate all nesting places and practice good sanitation to keep the population down. Keep in mind that rats have a new litter every 30 days... multiplying so rapidly a pair could have 15,000 descendants in a year's life span.

All rat baiting stations should be located where children and pets cannot come in contact with the bait. Rats and mice are destructive and are costing farmers a great deal of money.

To Appreciate Lancaster County

While attending the National County Agent's meeting in Seattle Washington last week, we had the opportunity to visit farms in the beautiful Pacific Northwest area. It was surprised to learn that their rainfall is less than Lancaster (36" per year to our 43"). Forest producers are their largest agriculture industry; they also raise a great deal of high quality potatoes.

The speakers were very informative and inspirational but the most important part for me was the exchange of ideas and concerns with agricultural agents from all states in the U.S. It makes you really appreciate the many good things that we have at home.



DON'T PROPHESY AT BETHEL!

October 14, 1990

Background Scripture:
Amos 7.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 2:1-14.

A study conducted by Professor Martin Seligman of the University of Pennsylvania indicates that in our era the American people have repeatedly voted for the presidential candidate who is most positive and optimistic in his campaign speeches. Time and again, according to this study, the American electorate has rejected the candidacies of presidential nominees whose outlook concerning the nation and its problems was negative. The majority of voters seem to prefer candidates who do not find much wrong with our situation as a nation and, if they do find something wrong, they want a candidate who will tell them that the situation can be simply remedied.

THE BAD NEWS MESSENGER

We all understand those findings, I think. It is understandable that we relate better to the optimist than the pessimist, even though we know sometimes we need to come face to face with the negative realities. Sometimes we need someone to tell us what is wrong so that we may make necessary changes in our community and national life. Still, the fact remains: no one likes a messenger who brings bad news. We may not kill them, as the Greeks and others used to do, but neither do we elect them to office.

The fact is, no matter how much we may approve of prophecy in general, few of us really can stand it in particular. This is no less true when our group is criticized than when we are personally singled out. In fact, when our community or our nation is denounced, we often react much as Amaziah the priest reacted: "Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel; the land is not able to bear his words" (7:10).

"NO PROPHET!"

Get out of town, Amaziah told Amos: "...go, flee away to the land of Judah, and eat bread there, and prophesy there; but never again prophesy at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary..." (7:12). Amaziah had no problem with Amos' profession so long as he practiced it somewhere else. But Amos tells him that this is not his profession, but God's call to deliver a message, and he does. It was not the message Amaziah or the kingdom wanted to hear. They would have preferred to hear that there were some problems in the land, but on the whole, everything was pretty good.

Has anything really changed in the world in this regard? Are we not just as resistant to a critical report as they were? Prophets are okay so long as they stay where they belong. And where is that? Anywhere but in Bethel and where we live!

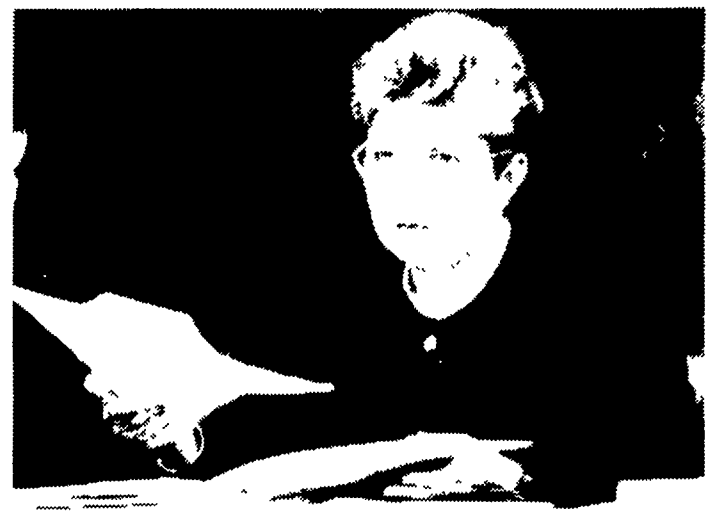
WIFE AND MOTHER - Barbara Hafer makes time for family despite busy schedule. Husband Jack and Barbara, top left, have four children. In picture are, clockwise, Regan with husband Chuck; daughter-in-law Suzanne, son John, family dog Sarge, Kelly and Beth.



AUDITOR GENERAL - Barbara Hafer oversees $20 billion in state spending each year and supervises a staff of 900 that ferrets out mismanagement and waste.

MEET THE REAL BARBARA HAFER

Who's the real Barbara Hafer? Nurse? Wife? Mother? Former county commissioner? Auditor General? Republican nominee for governor?

All of the above. And proud of it.

Barbara Hafer has been a success at every job she's undertaken. And won every election.

Agriculture won't be taken for granted in the Hafer administration. She says the state's Number One industry deserves more support from state government and its farmers more respect from DER, PennDOT, Game Commission and other agencies.

Look at her credentials

As a graduate nurse, she understands the problems of rural health care.

FARMER ADVOCATE - Barbara Hafer consults regularly with farmers like Dan Naylor, Lackawanna county, center, and Ken Rutt, Lancaster county. She supports more funds for ag research, state bottle bill, wetland exemptions for farms and more (not less) vo-ag education and FFA activities.

As county commissioner, she authored the first code of conduct for Allegheny county employees.

As fiscal conservative, she led the fight in Allegheny county against unwarranted tax increases. And won.

As president of the Allegheny County Prison Board, she received state wide acclaim for developing innovative methods to solve prison overcrowding.

As founder and Executive Director of the Allegheny County's Center for Victims of Violent Crime, she brought aid and support to thousands of victims.

As governor, Barbara Hafer promises to be a fulltime farmer advocate. "Agriculture's problems in Harrisburg today start at the top," she insists.

Vote for a winner.

BARBARA HAFER

"Farming is a big investment...

Time is valuable. An equipment breakdown in the field, delayed supplies, or sudden weather changes mean lost dollars, without quick reaction. Our GE mobile radio system gives us greater control and coordination over our operation. It's a farmer's friend."

Roger C. Garber
James M. Garber & Sons

With harvest season in full swing, your farm and equipment need to be operating at full potential. That's why more farmers are turning to General Electric Mobile Radio Systems. They provide quick, cost effective communications from home or field. It's like having another "farm hand" to help with the chores.

North American Livestock Exposition Set For November

LOUISVILLE, KY — Familiar is Alphonse Karr's saying, "The more things change, the more they stay the same."

The 1990 North American International Livestock will prove the truth of that adage by growing in some areas, remaining the same in others — and generally upholding its standing as the world's largest all-breed purebred livestock show.

As always, the expo, set for Nov. 3-16 at Louisville's Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, will hold shows and sales of animals of seven major livestock types: dairy goats, dairy cattle, quarter horses, draft horses, market swine, sheep and beef cattle. But new this year will be an expansion of the quarter horse show and the addition of an informative animal products exhibit.

To begin at the beginning, it is necessary to say that the animals brought here by exhibitors are purebreds. They are among the finest of their varieties, and, therefore, they are among the finest in the world.

The reason livestock producers bring their animals here is twofold. By winning in the show ring, exhibitors can learn if their breeding and production techniques are working; and if animals exemplify the traits considered standard in the industry. These traits, valued by consumers, confer the ultimate reward.

Second, by winning in the show ring, exhibitors claim a portion of more than $400,000 in NAILE premiums and awards.

The winning of prizes, premiums and industry approval is no easy thing. Generally, the North American International, which is sponsored by the Commonwealth of Kentucky, draws about 15,000 total entries, and they come from almost every state and from Canada. The competition is tough and intensive. Throughout the two-week expo, there are 125 separate events.

- Nov. 3-4 Dairy Goat Shows
- Nov. 3-6 Dairy Cattle Shows and Sales
- Nov. 2-8 AQHA-Approved Quarter Horse Show & Equine Events
- Nov. 4-5 Market Swine Show
- Nov. 10-11 Draft Horse Show
- Nov. 10-16 World's Largest Sheep Show
- Nov. 11-16 Beef Cattle Shows and Sales
- Nov. 15 Sale of Champions

Not only does the NAILE draw a crowd of competitors, it also draws a crowd of onlookers. The show is open to the public. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under. Expo officials expect about 150,000 visitors.

Examine Manure For Bird Health

HERBERT C. JORDAN
Prof. Of Poultry Science
Penn State University

Laying hens as well as other poultry seem to get wet, loose, or abnormal droppings when they are ill or have a behavioral upset. The manure (stool) of a bird can be examined for normality.

If it is normal, bird performance appears to be better, along with product quality, feed efficiency, and bird health. Net income may vary widely if manure is wet or birds are diarrhetic.

The following table shows waht to expect in a normal vs. abnormal stool.

Manure has quality or value if bird is kept healthy. Manure forms a stool and is dried soon after it is produced.

Note: The trends in manure quality in this article are not precisely measured except for a few laboratory tests. They are the result of market and management field studies and surveys where normal and abnormal manure have been sold or used and the results observed by producers and author.

This problem can take many thousands of dollars of net income from a farm every year and you may not discover it. Keep manure stools normal.

West Virginia Water Quality Program Participation High

MORGANTOWN, WV — Farmers living in the Greenbrier River Hydrologic Unit Area near Lewisburg have snapped up half a million dollars in cost-sharing that will help them improve water quality.

Twenty-four farms are to develop manure management systems in the next three to five years with 75 percent cost-sharing.

Another 101 farms will install other conservation measures, mainly livestock watering systems.

Tom Vance, coordinator and district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said, "It's been overwhelming. I don't think anybody anticipated this kind of signup this year."

USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is disbursing the cost-shares. The Agricultural Research Service is monitoring springs for pollutants from fertilizers, pesticides and manure.

The West Virginia State Soil Conservation Committee used a grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to find out the kinds of pesticides used and the rates and methods of application.

The West Virginia University Extension Service is trying to help farmers reduce pollutants. A scout checks crops weekly for insects, weeds, and diseases and samples soils. Farmers are to use pesticides and fertilizers only when needed.

Hess And 'Lightning' Take Manheim Beef Honors

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Often it's the heavyweight class winner that gets the best chance to grab the overall grand honor at a farm show. But this time it was a 1,320-pound medium weight winner that clearly grabbed the judge's attention at the Manheim Fair Beef Show Tuesday night.

"Lightning," a 1,320-pound medium weight Angus/Simmental cross, took champion overall spotlight at the show, featuring 11 exhibitors. Liz Hess, 15, a member of the Manheim Central FFA, clinched the championship with the steer.

Liz has been a member of the 4-H in Manheim for eight years and picked up reserve champion 4-H at Manheim last year. She also exhibited at the 1989 Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg.

"Lightning" competed against 11 other steers in a class that show judge Rod Gilbert, an instructor at Delaware Valley College and superintendent of livestock at the school, liked for the quality over the quantity.

"Even though the quantity wasn't there, the quality was very good the whole show," said Gilbert, who also judged last year's Manheim Fair beef show. "I think they're all really adequate in the amount of finish they have. I think they're all very well muscled."

Travis Donough, 10, Manheim, picked up reserve overall champion with "Bruno," a 1,315-pound heavyweight Maine Anjou/Angus cross. The steer was exhibited in the Manheim 4-H Club roundup in August. Travis, a fifth grader at Sporting Hill Elementary in Manheim, is in his second year in 4-H.

(Turn to Page A21)

Named Sovereign Champion

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Time To Cash In" was declared the sovereign champion and captured the $1,000 prize in last week's Challenge of the Breeds, held in conjunction with the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The champion Quarter horse is a seven-year-old gelding owned by Jamie Strunk of McMurry, Washington County. Bobbie Christy of New Castle, Lawrence County, shared the riding responsibilities with Jamie.

Challenge of the Breeds is an invitational horse exhibition, pitting eight of Pennsylvania's finest horses against each other in six different activities.

"Time To Cash In" scored a total of 21 points, winning the western riding challenge, hunter hack challenge and pleasure driving challenge.

Only one point separated the sovereign champion from the reserve champion and it's $500 payoff. "HF Skip A Devi" a three-year-old Paint Horse owned by Diane Helder of Wrightsville, York County, came in second.

Each of the four breeds entered won at least one activity class. Helder's reserve champion scored first in the English pleasure challenge, and Nettlings Appaloosa of Carlisle took first in the western challenge pleasure. In an unusual twist, Shirley Graig's Abrabian horse from Nottingham, placed first in the barrel race challenge, something Arabians generally don't excel in.

Challenge of the Breeds was sponsored by the Glatfelter Insurance Group of York. The Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association, Pennsylvania Paint Horse Club, Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association and Keystone Appaloosa Club were each invited to nominate two horses for the exclusive competition.

A New View Of Rootworm Control

Now's the time to look at rootworm control in a whole new way. Only LORSBAN* 15G granular insecticide gives you the rootworm control you're looking for, yet is one of the least hazardous to handle of all soil insecticides. LORSBAN 15G is the only leading granular, at-plant insecticide with a CAUTION signal word and is not Restricted Use.

For a new view of rootworm control, as well as control of other crop-damaging insects, see your ag chemical dealer for LORSBAN 15G.

Forage Analysis Is Here!

BOB ORMSBY
Pa. DHIA

Almost two years ago, a survey was mailed to all Pennsylvania DHIA members regarding forage analysis services. Almost 1,000 of you responded to the survey, with 70 percent of those responses indicating a strong desire for Pa. DHIA to provide forage and feed analysis capabilities for members.

This positive response lead to a study of the alternative ways to provide such services, which ranged from linking up with an established laboratory to starting a lab operation of our own. After much study and discussion, an answer has emerged.

On Sept. 1, Pa. DHIA began providing a full range of forage and feed analysis services through a joint agreement with the Northeast DHIA lab in Ithaca, N.Y. This means that you are able to order service by mail from the N.E. DHIA lab for the same rates paid by the N.E. DHIA members. You will receive the same high quality service that they receive with no initial equity investment or risk.

Your DHIA supervisor should be able to explain the service to you and to provide forage sample bags and order forms to you for no cost. When sending the samples in, please include your check for payment in the amount shown on the order form. Make checks payable to Northeast DHYIA.

It is our sincere hope that this working arrangement with the Northeast DHIA will be a strong addition to our member service line. If you have any questions about getting started, please don't hestitate to call either Pa. DHIA at 1-800-DHI-TEST or N.E. DHIA at 1-800-255-5344.

It is also our intention to keep you informed through this column of any news coming from the forage lab. The following "Forage Brief" arrived in the office this week. It was written by Paul Sirois, forage lab manager.

"New forage report forms are now flooding the mailways. The new wide open format makes it an easy form to read. As always, definitions of the different analyses appear on the back side.

"The one major change is soluble protein.

"In the past, we reported two measures of solubility: 1. soluble protein 2. protein solubility.

"This often led to confusion, so we dropped one. We kept the protein solubility, but renamed it 'soluble protein.' This is because the majority of people in the field use the protein solubility number and call is soluble protein. Thus, we kept the most used number and used the most used name. The soluble protein now appears beneath the adjusted crude protein.

"Supervisor information for DHIA feeding programs has moved from the top of the page to the bottom. It is still outlined in red.

"Please call us if you have any questions about these changes."

How Does Your Herd Compare?

Pennmarva Takes Position On Federal Milk Marketing Orders

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — The Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, a trade association representing Mid-Atlantic dairy cooperatives, testified this week that the federal order system is doing its job in regulating the pricing of milk and does not need to be changed, as others maintain.

Pennmarva's comments were made during a hearing Oct. 1-5 in Syracuse, N.Y. The hearing is part of a national proceedings that began Sept. 4 to consider proposed changes in federal milk orders. Currently, 41 federal orders operate throughout the country and are responsible for setting the minimum price of milk in individual market areas.

The hearings were prompted by the Upper Midwest Coalition, a group of dairy cooperatives, local branches of national farm groups and state governments who maintain that milk markets are no longer regional and that federal orders are out of date.

According to Pennmarva testimony, which was presented by Dr. James E. Honan and Judson P. Mason, current federal order provisions are sound and should be continued.

Honan, a cooperative consultant and retired general manager of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, supported the current Class I fluid milk price as one "which provides proper price alignment." He expressed concern over who has the "right" to produce surplus milk and cited examples of how proposed changes in differentials and basing points will not eliminate regional surplus problems.

In his testimony, Mason, also a consultant and a former economist for the National Milk Producers Federation, reviewed the history and success of the federal order system.

Hearing testimony is expected to conclude in November. Given the lengthy proceeding and the controversial nature of the proposals, the timing of a USDA decision is uncertain.

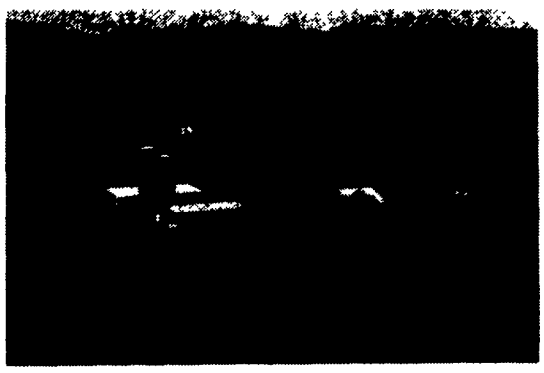
Dunn's Farms, Inc. - New Ringgold's

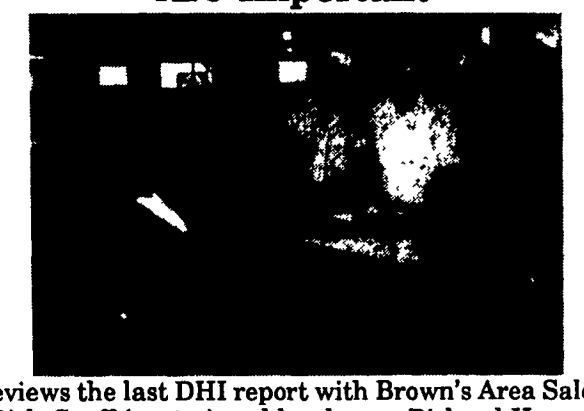


Nestled in a valley in Schuylkill County, Dunn's Pride Holsteins were established in November of 1987 when Jim and Tammy Dunn purchased a Registered Holstein herd from Cliff Lavan of Milton. Jim's father and brother operate a crop, fruit and vegetable business on a long established family farm. Cows are fed hay, haylage, corn silage, high moisture corn, home grown soybeans and a Brown's concentrate balanced for top production with emphasis on maximum forage intake.

The Dunn Family

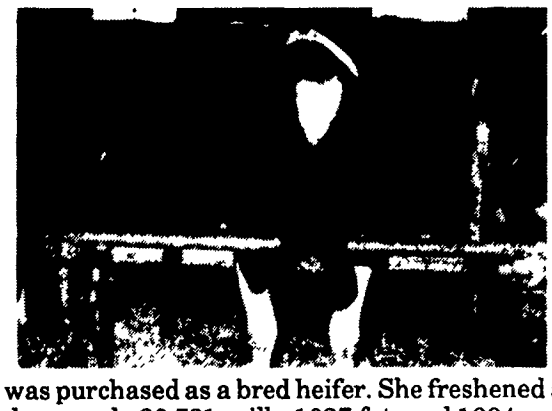
Jim, his wife Tammy, and sons Bobby, Joshua, and David enjoy the dairy business. The calf shown here, a Vanguard daughter out of a 30,000 lb. Bell dam is representative of the future Dunn's Pride Holstein herd. Calves are all raised on Brown's Calf Feeding Program featuring Brown's Calf Starter, Brown's Calf Grower, and 40 Hef-R-B300 Bovatec heifer supplement.

Ration Balancing and Ration Cost Are Important



Jim reviews the last DHI report with Brown's Area Sales Manager Rich Graff (center) and herdsman Richard Heyer (right). Jim feels that with Brown's he has more time to concentrate on the cows. He had tried another feed consultant/mineral company before switching to Brown's, and it was taking much more time to mix feeds. Ration cost was also a concern. Since switching to Brown's, milk production has increased over 7,000 lbs., herd size has also increased by one third, but feed cost per hundred of milk has stayed the same and Income Over Feed Cost has doubled. Apple (cow in front of feed cart) is one of eight cows in the herd projected at over 30,000 lbs. of milk.

2 Yr. Old - Top Cow In Herd



Penny was purchased as a bred heifer. She freshened at 2-6 and in 305 days made 30,731 milk, 1027 fat, and 1004 protein. She is due in November and in August was still at 74 lbs. of milk. Jim feels his cows freshen easier, start faster, and maintain their peaks longer on the Brown's Program. From January to June, Penny milked over 100 lbs. Apple (previous picture) peaked at 162 lbs. & milked over 100 lbs. from February through June. During four months this spring he had seventeen cows out of his fifty cow herd milking over 100 lbs. per day. Breeding is excellent with a 13.2 month calving interval, and a 52% success rate on first service.

safety concerns and deal with misunderstanding at the grass-roots level.

In a video presentation from the Ag Council of America, President Larry Stutzman, a Nebraska farmer, said he finds himself angry, frustrated, and more than a little worried — not just about crops and weather or the way prices are going, but about the way people perceive farmers.

"In the past, farmers were about as mainstream America as you could get," Stutzman said, "right up there with motherhood and apple pie. But lately, stories in the paper and on TV about farm chemicals in the water supply, antibiotics in meats, and so-called poisoned apples have taken the credibility of farmers to an all-time low.

"I know that I'm not hurting children or tainting water. No one has a deeper respect for life or the land than those who earn their living from it. But make no mistake about it, there is definitely a crisis in confidence in the safety, health, and nutritional values of our food supply," Stutzman said.

"Most of this crisis is caused by misinformation and partial truths," he said. "But people are begining to believe and listen."

Peters said that agriculture's message is often confusing because of the different views from various segments of the industry. And agriculture often talks to itself.

"If we do not unite and speak with a clear and pwoerful voice, I'm afraid a wedge will be driven between us and the technology we need," Peters said.

Under the FoodWatch Program, various segments of the food production and processing industry have joined together to restore confidence in the health and safety of the U.S. food supply.

In the awards program, PAFC honored Bruce Stainbrook, Meadville, as the 1990 master educator. Stainbrook is associated with Penn West Farm Credit and devotes much time to help educate people about the agricultural cooperative system. He visits high schools and 4-H clubs, is the chairperson for the Western Institute, is president of the Erie/Crawford Co-Op Council, and is president of the Western region board.

Stainbrook is in his family dairy farm partnership and is a member of the Crawford County DHIA and Holstein Club.

Andrew Marvin, Ephrata, was given the 1990 PAFC Distinguished Service Award. For more than 25 years, Martin has dedicated his life to the cooperative way of doing business as a field representative for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and as chairman of the Lancaster Co-Op Council.

Dr. William Heald, professor, dairy science, Penn State, was the master of ceremonies.

The 1990 PAFC distinguished service award winner is Andrew Marvin (left) and the 1990 master educator award is Bruce Stainbrook.

Winners Named In Youth Dairy Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Cornell University won the intercollegiate division of the 22nd Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest at the Pennsylvnaia All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg yesterday. They received $225 and the Curthbert Naim Rotating Trophy for their efforts.

The Cornell team scored 2121 points for judging 40 cows in six breeds of dairy cattle. Team members included Deborah Donahoe of Frankfort, Mike Wolfe of Richfield, Katharine Knowlton of Portland, and alternate Bryan Gotham of Herman.

Cornell's Mike Wolfe captured first place in the individual ranks for his judging of all breeds, while teammate Katharine Knowlton took first place in the individual ranks for her total reasons.

The University of Wisconsin at River Falls captured second place in the intercollegiate division with 2074 points, while Penn State University placed third and the University of Minnesota took fourth.

The competition provides top-notch dairy youth with an opportunity to match skills in a wide open forum with their peers from around the United States and Canada. Thirty-six teams were entered in the contest, with some coming from as far as California, Connecticut and Florida to compete.

"All of these students are recognized as top judges and have earned the right to represent their university or state," according to Alan Bair, contest superintendent.

"There are two aspects to this type of national judging contest. First is the ability to evaluate dairy cattle and second is the ability to stand in front of a judge and defend their placing in a two-minute oral reason presentation. The contest develops leadership, 'ecision-making, public speaking and poise."

Youths participate in the judging feeds and forages.

4-H and FFA Winners

Taking $175 and the Harold McCulloch Rotating Plaque for first place in the FFA division was the West Virginia's team. With a total of 1594 points, they narrowly defeated the Indian FFA who scored 1591. Finishing third was New York's FFA team with 1570, and the Pennsylvania FFA team scored 1562.

West Virginia's team members included Randy Lanam of Hedgesville, William Hilliard, Zack Hilliard and alternate Todd Graham, all of Martinsburg.

William Hilliard had the high score of 550 in the individual ranks for all breeds in the FFA division, and Indiana's Lynn Flora of Rossville scored first in the individual ranks for total reasons.

The Maryland team scored 1871, good for first place in the 4-H invitational team competition for judging in all breeds. Earning $175 and the Joe S. Taylor Rotating Plaque were Amy Brown of Glenelg, Blair Hill of Libson, Chip Long of Thurmont and alternate Mike Conner.

The Wisconsin 4-H team placed second with 1858 points, the Virginia 4-H team placed third and finishing fourth was the 4-H team from Pennsylvania.

The high scoring individual for all breeds was Paul Haskins of Chagrin Falls, Ohio. David Lentz of Lebanon, Pennsylvania, placed first in the 4-H individual ranks for total reasons.

The 37 judging teams entered in the prestigious event were honored September 24 during a banquet at the Sheraton East. The banquet and contest were sponsored by Agway, the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, and Monsanto Agricltural Company.

The contest is an opening-day highlight of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, held annually at the Farm Show Complex.

New York State Boy Wins Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Robby Wilson of Dansville, New York, was the high scoring individual in this year's Junior Dairyman Contest held in conjunction with the Pennslvania All-American Dairy Show.

The contest affords 4-H and FFA club members an opportunity to practice their dairy management skills through judging and evaluating top quality dairy animals.

The second high scorer was Marel Raub of Duncannon, Perry County, with 454 points, followed by Jennie Baum of Shippensburg, representing the Cumberland County 4-H Club.

The 4-H team scoring showed a first place tally of 989 points for the Canaseraga Active Achievers 4-H Club of New York. Team members included Robby and Bryan Wilson of Dansville, Shannon Lacy of Canaseraga, and Emily Hill of Cuba. Rounding out the top five 4-H teams were the Westmoreland County Dairy Bowl 4-H Club, Perry County 4-H Club, Milksquirts 4-H Club, and Centre County 4-H Club.

The Captain Jack FFA from Mount Union High School, Huntingdon County, took first place in the FFA team scoring with 887 points. Team members included Duane Varner of Shirleysburg, Linda Fisher, Penny Fisher and Lee Forgy, all of McVeystown.

Placing second through fifth in the FFA team judging were Tulpehocken FFA, Conococheague, State College Little Lions and Lancaster Mennonite High School.

Farm Credit Bankers Have Long Been Recognized For Achievements In The Field.

Farm Credit bankers possess their share of prestigious achievement awards. But more often than not, the awards they're most proud of are the ones they've earned in, say, conservation, dairy, or veterinary science.

Not many bankers can say that.

That's because most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms. They grew up active in 4-H and FFA. Many even got their college degrees from ag schools.

What's more, every one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

And because our loan officers understand farming as well as financing, they're not only smarter. They're faster. In fact, they have the power of loan approval equal to most bank presidents'.

So stop by soon and talk with your nearby Farm Credit loan officer. Because whenever you need some extra help in your field, you'll want to work with the banker most accomplished in his.

retirement in 1986.

Burdette has authored extension publications on beef cattle, swine, sheep, and 4-H livestock projects and has served on numerous committees for KILE and the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. He was awarded the Gamma Sigma Delta Extension Award of Merit in 1985 and was named Pennsylvania Cattleman of the Year in 1986.

Other award winners

At its annual banquet, the Stockmen's Gala at KILE, the association presented its 1990 youth awards to outstanding 4-H and FFA members.

Winners of the FFA honors were Nikki Griffin, daughter of Darryl and Sharon Griffin of Little Marsh, Tioga County and Andrew Smeltz, son of Walter and Gladys Smeltz of Lykens, Dauphin County.

Griffin, now a student at Mansfield State University, was a member of the Cowanesque Valley High School FFA chapter. Smeltz, who is a sophomore at Penn State, belonged to the Upper Dauphin High School FFA.

Selected for Outstanding 4-H Youth honors were Lettie Trice, daughter of Terry and Therese Trice of Acme, Westmoreland County and Eddie Krevel, son of Donald and Wanda Krevel of Cherry Tree, Indiana County.

Trice, a member of the Westmoreland County 4-H program, attends Westmoreland County Community College, while Krevel is a member of the Harmony and Northern Livestock 4-H clubs and attends Harmony Area High School in adjoining Clearfield County.

New PLA officers

The association members elected Dennis Grumbine of Lebanon, president; Anthony Dobrosky of Glen Rock, York County, first vice president; Myron Ritter of Lafayette Hill, Montgomery County, second vice president; Robert Kimble of University Park, secretary; and Michael Firestine of Lebanon, treasurer.

Beverly Snyder of Emlenton, Clarion County, continues as executive secretary.

Members of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association (PLA) Hall of Fame assembled with family members as the association dedicated a new plaque in the small arena of the Farm Show Complex during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Plans Set For N. Y. Vegetable Conference

ITHACA, N.Y. — Plans are progressing for the 1991 New York State Vegetable Conference, with exhibitor and trade show information now available. This major conference will take place on February 11-13, 1991, at the Syracuse Sheraton Inn and Convention Center, Liverpool, New York.

It will be the third year for this statewide event, which combines the processing, storage, and fresh market vegetable grower meetings for New York state. Commodities to be covered at the conference in February will include snap beans, peas, sweet corn, potatoes, vine and cole crops, specialty vegetables, tomatoes, peppers, cabbage, onions, and carrots. There will also be a one-day greenhouse/vegetable transplant session.

Co-sponsored by the New York State Vegetable Growers Association Inc. and Cornell Cooperative Extension/NYS College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, the conference is joined this year by the Empire State Potato Club as a co-sponsor for the potato day.

Along with the grower meetings will be a trade show, the annual banquet, and the annual meetings for several commodity groups as well as the New York State Vegetable Growers Association Inc. and the Empire State Potato Club Inc.

Program details will be available in January. For more information about the conference and trade show, call Jean Warholic, NYS Vegetable Growers Association, (607) 539-7648.

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

Super Hilda Sets Standard For All American Ayrshire

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 4-year-old cow shown by Ronald Mackechnie of Bonnie Shade Farm, Quyon, Canada topped the Eastern National Ayrshire Show September 26. Bonnie Shade Super Hilda, a Sunny Acres Superior daughter, was named senior and grand champion and best senior female bred and owned of the show, held at the Farm Show complex.

"She was the best-uddered cow," said judge William Etgen of Blacksburg, Virginia. "She's a clean-cut dairy cow that looks like milk."

Reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors went to Smoky Hill Hub Rosett, a 3-year-old shown by Wayne Sliker of Top Acres Farm, St. Paris, Ohio.

In the youth portion of the show, Nicole Patrick of Maple Dell Farm, Woodbine, Md., showed the senior and grand champion. Her junior 2-year-old, Maple Dell Rebels Goober, is a Des Peupliers Rebel daughter.

Eastern Milk Pays Profits

retaining profits in the co-op. As a result, he said, Eastern returned more than $300,000 to farmers in fiscal 1988, more than $600,000 in fiscal 1989, and $1.2 million in fiscal 1990.

After that profit payout, the co-op was left with $48,000 in net proceeds for the fiscal year.

Eastern General Manager Michael Donovan noted the co-op has been profitable for nine consecutive years, allowing not only the monthly bonus program, but also a reduction in member dues from 14 cents to 11 cents per hundred pounds of milk during that period.

Donovan said Eastern doubled its profit bonus payout despite lower sales and milk volume. He said the co-op had sales of $230.7 million on 1.6 billion pounds of milk, compared to $236.5 million on 1.9 million pounds of milk for the previous year. Eastern, as the marketing arm for its members, passed the majority of those sales dollars to farmers through twice-a-month milk checks.

In other business, John and Gail Bunting of Treadwell, New York were named Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative's 1990 Quality Farmers of the Year for herd management practices that have consistently put their product on top for quality.

The couple was honored at Eastern's 68th annual banquet on Sept. 27.

The Buntings and their children Abby and Virgil live on a 212-acre farm and milk 26 Jersey cows that produce 11,200 to 11,400 pounds per year per cow.

The Buntings lead a list of 10 top producers in the co-op who have produced extra high quality milk.

They also are number one in the New York region.

No. 1 Producer in New England: Fox Croft Farm, Brandon, VT, was named the top quality producer in New England.

No. 1 in Pennsylvania: Bruce E. Bartley Jr., Cogan Station, was named the top quality producer in Pennsylvania.

Others in the top 10: Rounding out the list of Eastern's Top 10 Quality Producers are:

- Glenn and Rosanne Swartzentruber, Roaring Branch, Pa.
- Frances and Darryl Crumb, Smithville Flats, N.Y.
- Richard and Joanne Tice, Troy, Pa.
- Marilyn L. Kearkuff, Benton, Pa.
- Ronald and Virginia Lindgren, Granville, N.Y.
- Thomas Parr, Pine Bush, N.Y.
- Shelburne Farms, Shelburne, VT.

Field Representative of the Year: Carl Hagmann of Eaton, N.Y. Hagmann joined Eastern as a quality control field representative in spring of 1989, working with producers primarily in the New York state counties of Delaware, Otsego, Madison, and Chenango.

Membership Field Supervisor Dick DePuy said Hagmann was a "dedicated individual who has continually improved the image of Eastern in his area and has led the field reps in member recruitment."

Hagmann, a retired New York State trooper, is an avid sportsman and belongs to trap shooting and rod and gun clubs. He and his wife, Joan, have three children.

Ag Journalists of the Year: The radio team of Ed Slusarzyck and Jeff Stewart were honored as Eastern's ag broadcast journalists of the year. Since forming a partnership over the last two years, their Ag Radio Network has "reached new heights in coverage of farm issues." Operating out of the Utica, N.Y. area, the network extends to stations in New York, Pennsylvania, and New England.

Farm business reporter J. Michael Kelly of the Syracuse newspapers was named the print journalist of the year for "outstanding reporting of farm issues in terms that both farmers and consumers can understand." Kelly writes a weekly farm column in the Sunday edition of the "Syracuse Herald-American."

Annual Cattlemen Meeting

READING (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Cattlemen's Association will hold its second annual banquet and general membership meeting on Friday, October 19, 1990 at the Deer Lake Inn, located along Route 61 in Schuylkill County. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature a full-course, prime rib dinner.

Speaking at the banquet will be Dr. Steven Levan, an area veterinarian whose private practice has provided much insight into handling beef cattle. Dr. Levan will share his experiences and advice on proper facilities for handling cattle, and other related topics.

Tickets for the banquet, which is open to anyone in the beef industry in southeastern Pennsylvania, are $25 per person. The price includes the entire meal, from appetizer to dessert, and the gratuity. Reservations should be made by sending a check, payable to the Berks County Cattlemen's Association, to Mrs. April Moll, banquet chairperson, R.D. #2 Box 2288, Orwigsburg, PA 17961. Big T Nectar Is Grand All American Guernsey

Franklin Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Guernsey breeders from at least eight states paraded their best animals around the Farm Show building's newly-decorated large arena. Organ music played in the background while judge Norman Hill of Woodbine, Md., decided the placings for the National Guernsey Show.

When it was all over, the John D. Ayars family of Land of Living Farm, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, walked off with most of the top awards. Land of Living Big T Nectar was named grand champion, best senior female bred and owned, and total performance winner. Land of Living Farm earned the premier exhibitor banner.

Nectar, a 4-year-old, is classified Excellent 92. She was reserve grand champion of last year's National Guernsey Show, and earned reserve All-American honors in 1989 and 1987. In 1988, she went All-American. At 3 years and 9 months, she made 21,300 pounds of milk and 1,092 pounds of fat, for a 5.1 percent test.

Reserve grand champion of the show, held Sept. 26, was Snider's Rons Dinah, a 4-year-old projected at almost 16,000 pounds of milk. Owned by Snider's Homestead Farm of New Enterprise, Dinah won the grand champion banner at the 1990 Maryland State Fair.

Snider's Homestead Farm and Spring Walk Farm of Big Prairie, Ohio tied for the premier breeder award.

Best-uddered cow of the show was a junior 2-year-old, Crown Stone Adrian Tara, shown by John Schnebly of Crown Stone Farm, Clear Spring, Md.

KILE Barrows Show Won By Hazlett

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 16-year old State College High School junior showed the grand champion male during market animal competition in the junior barrows show and went on to capture the grand champion title in overall competition during the 34th Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) during the Columbus Day weekend.

Kristen Hazlett, of State College (Centre County), Pennsylvania, captured the grand champion show ribbons with "Indy," a Hampshire/York crossbred. It was Kristen's ninth year showing pigs at KILE, and her second win with a grand champion. She has also been an active exhibitor and has had grand champs at the Grange Fair.

A 14-year old freshman at Francis Scott Key High School in Union Bridge, Maryland, showed the reserve grand champion male at the 1990 KILE. Monica Feeser, of Taneytown, showed "Harry," a Hampshire/Duroc crossbred swine to win the reserve champion ribbon. Monica is an active 4-H member and KILE competitor who previous showed a KILE grand champion and a reserve grand champion in the junior show.

Monica's family operates Carousel Acres farm near Taneytown, Maryland.

DOEBLER'S ALFALFAS

Don't nickel and dime new seedings

by Willard Jones

Ever figure the cost of alfalfa seed per ton of hay?

Penn State recently did some cost accounting for Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers Program.

Amazingly, establishment cost was only $6.50 per ton when prorated over the 4.3 year life of the stands. That covered seed, fertilizer, spray materials and other direct costs.

Actual seed cost was nickel and dime stuff. A mere $2.04 per ton.

This bookkeeping proves one thing. What's really important is how the new alfalfas perform over the long haul. And no alfalfas do better than the new Doebler's Precedent and Starmaster. Here's why:

Winter hardiness for longer stands. Both have top ratings. But Starmaster has slight edge in short season country.

Disease resistance. Both resistant to the big five diseases. Precedent also resistant to a new killer, Aphanomyces.

Insect resistance. Starmaster shows moderate resistance to leaf hopper and pea aphid. Precedent shrugs off spotted alfalfa aphid.

Tonnage. Nothing average here. Starmaster and Precedent regularly finish among top 10 in Eastern trials. And they win their share of firsts and seconds.

Watch these Eastern alfalfas go to work for you in 1991.

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, suggesting you think performance rather than price per pound when buying alfalfa seed.

Maryland Girl Takes First In National 4-H Dairy Judging

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Two Maryland team members earned higher scores in national 4-H dairy cattle judging competition on Oct. 2 at Madison, Wis., than they did eight days earlier in a regional contest at Harrisburg.

Amy Brown, 19, of Roxbury (Howard County) was tenth in the overall standings among 67 individuals from 17 states at Harrisburg. She placed first in the national 4-H dairy cattle judging contest at Madison.

Mike Conner, 16, of Chester Harbor (Queen Anne's County) was 21st in the Harrisburg contest as the alternate Maryland team member. He qualified as a regular team member at Madison by placing 18th in the overall standings.

There were 148 participants from 36 states and the Canadian province of Ontario in the national contest. It was part of the 36th annual National 4-H Dairy Conference, held in conjunction with the World Dairy Expo.

Amy Brown's individual championship in this year's national contest contrasts with her sixth-place finish among senior contestants in the state 4-H dairy cattle judging contest, held Sept. 1 during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. On her way to the overall national championship at Madison, Amy placed third in Jersey cattle judging, fifth in oral and written reasons, fifth in Holsteins, eighth in Guernseys, and 19th in Ayrshire judging.

Mike Conner was fifth in Ayrshire cattle judging, 13th in reasons, 15th in Guernseys, and 23rd in Brown Swiss judging. He had been fourth in the state contest on Sept. 1.

Blair Hill, 16, of Lisbon (Howard County) placed 20th in the overall standings at Madison. He was 14th in reasons, 26th in Guernsey judging, 28th in Holsteins, and 30th in Ayrshire judging.

Raymond "Chip" Long, 18, of Graceham (Frederick County) was the alternate Maryland team member at Madison. He placed 28th in the overall standings, eighth in Jersey cattle judging and 29th in Holsteins.

As a team, the Maryland delegation was fourth overall. The team placed second in reasons, second in Guernsey cattle judging, fourth in Jerseys, fourth in Ayrshires, sixth in Holsteins, and ninth in Brown Swiss judging.

Coaching Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging teams for the ninth consecutive year is Dr. J. Lee Majeskie of Calverton (Prince George's County), a dairy herd management specialist for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

Maryland teams have won the national 4-H dairy cattle judging contest 25 times in the 70-year history of the event—including 1989—a record unmatched by any other state. Dr. Majeskie has coached two of Maryland's national champion teams.

As the national champion in 4-H dairy cattle judging, Maryland's Amy Brown is this year's winner of the $500 Lawrence O. Colebank scholarship, awarded annually by the American Guernsey Cattle Club, headquartered at Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

Previous national 4-H dairy cattle judging champions from Maryland include William L. Swift III of Shepperd (Baltimore County) in 1985; Michael J. Allen of Jefferson in 1981 and Ronnie Kling of Taneytown in 1974, both from Frederick County.

Also Barbara Whipp of Gaithersburg (Montgomery County) in 1965 and Dottie Grove of Hagerstown (Washington County) in 1961.

Mum Farm Blooms With 3,000 Varieties During Fall

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Three thousand varieties of chrysanthemums all in one place?

Unbelieveable.

But that is why hundreds visit Kreider's Mum Gardens in Lititz during October.

There, Harold and Esther Kreider delight in talking about their mums and how to raise them.

"It's a joy to show people our mums," Esther said. "It's a blessing. We do the work — and believe me it is work to keep them clean — and He (God) does the rest."

The roots to the Kreider's mum gardens date back 38 years to when the couple was dating. They visited a grand aunt who gave them two dozen mum cuttings from her own garden.

After the couple married, they moved to a 65-acre Lititz farm where they raised chickens, tobacco, and other crops.

They planted their aunt's mum rootings. For many years the couple took delight in transplanting the mums and watching them grow. Soon they had 500 stalks planted beside their chicken house.

"It was just a hobby," Esther said. "But people started coming to see the flowers and asking to buy some."

For many years the Kreiders continued to plant tobacco and mums.

"When it was time to pot mums, it was also time to harvest tobacco," Harold recalled.

One day his wife asked, "Wouldn't it be much nicer to raise mums instead of tobacco? Flowers make every one feel better and tobacco harms people."

In 1960, the Kreiders officially concentrated on the mum business and stopped raising tobacco.

What they learned about the fall flower was by trial and error.

"Nobody seems to know much about mums and those that do, don't want to talk about it," Harold said. "The extension people and others call us when they have questions about the flower."

The Kreiders start the flowers from cuttings, not seeds.

"We really wanted to develop seeds, something horticulturists have not been successful in doing. We were able to isolate and take the seed, but it will not germinate," she said.

For the first two weeks, the cuttings are watered every 20 minutes. For another two weeks they are watered profusely before transplanting to the fields.

The Kreiders said that many people who purchase mums at stores are disappointed to find they bloom only a few weeks and do not survive over the winter.

"Pot-grown mums rarely winter over because perennials need a full growing season to develop undergrowth," Harold said. "Ours do because we plant them in the field for a full growing season before transplanting in pots. All our mums are field grown."

For the past 15 years the Kreiders have developed many varieties through cross pollination.

They test the varieties for blight resistance, root and stem strength, and for appearance.

"Sometimes, the flowers are beautiful, but they have a lousy stalk," Harold said. "Then we don't continue with that variety."

They label each variety. Some are named after their children and grandchildren; others are merely assigned numbers.

They are thrilled with a double pink variety — a rarity in the mum business.

As yet, no blue mums exist, but the Kreiders are optimistic that they will develop one.

Problems with the mums are miminal. "We always have a crop no matter what the weather," Esther said.

The couple have had some scares. One year, a 3-inch snow fell in September, just when the flowers were beginning to bloom. In desperation, the couple used a broom to sweep off the snow. The plants that they didn't get the snow swept off bloomed profusely, but those from which they removed the snow appeared frost bitten.

Mums will provide years of beauty if they are transplanted every three to four years. "People ususally have trouble because they don't thin them properly," Harold said. "Don't just thin them out. Dig up the old stalk and separate it into pieces and then plant again."

The Kreider's business expanded into dried flower arrangements. They dry some, but buy others to keep up with the demand.

"I never took any lessons in flower arrangement; it just comes naturally," Esther said.

The aroma of pungent dried flowers fills the gift shop attached to the Kreider's home. Swags, wreaths, and potted arrangements are scattered among wooden crafts, quilts, wall hangings, pillows, and other crafts.

Harold and Esther Kreider believe they have the best job in the world working with colorful flowers.

One of the most popular crafts is a teddy bear lamp that they make. A rabbit one is also drawing a following.

The couple makes almost all the items sold in the shop. Their evenings are spent in the basement where Harold prepares baskets and wreaths for Esther to decorate with dried flowers. During summer and fall months, they often prepare canned goods to sell. These include stuffed pepper relish, pickled red beets, watermelon rind, jellies, apple butter, pickles, and pickle relish.

"After we close the shop at 5 p.m., Mom looks forward to sitting down and boring out peppers. We made 54 pints of stuffed pepper relish last night," Harold said.

"People think we work hard, but we do a lot of things just for fun. It doesn't even seem like work," Esther said.

Harold added, "After we work in the basement for several hours, Mom will look at her watch and say, 'I can't believe it's bedtime already. We just got started.'"

The couple sells about 60 quilts a year. They have a system where Harold lays out the colors and marks off the quilts while Esther does the stitching.

"We always work well together," Esther said. "And we always have had the same interests. Even before we met each other, we were both flower persons."

Esther said, "We don't sit around and watch TV. It's so much fun to create things. That is our relaxation. Why, I have lots of ideas, but not enough time to try them yet."

In addition to selling out of their own shop, the couple also supplies some other shops with dried flower arrangements.

Their business has grown mainly through word of mouth. They get orders from places as far away as California and Texas.

Esther said, "We have the best business. We get to work together, and we work with beautiful flowers. I just love it. Each morning I look out the window and see how much the mums have opened overnight. It always reminds me that we do the work, but it's God who makes them grow."

Kreider's Mum Gardens, located at 900 Kreider Road, off Route 501 North of Lititz, is open six days from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Christmas. No Sunday sales. Call (717) 626-6805.

The Kreider's interest in flowers blossomed into a unique gift shop featuring dried flower arrangements, handicrafts, and canned goods.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

This year is the 100th birthday of peanut butter, and I thought you might like some peanut butter recipes to help you celebrate!

Peanut butter is America's number one sandwich spread, consumed daily by about 40 million Americans, but today's microwave recipes use this popular taste in sweet treats.

The recipes are from "Microwave Peanut Recipes," a free leaflet from the Peanut Advisory Board. The leaflet features 11 recipes. Most are sweets that call for peanut butter, including a wonderful-sounding Peanut Butter Fudge. There is also an appetizer and a dip recipe and a way to micro-roast raw peanuts. I chose three of the sweets to test and to share with you today because I thought they'd make good Halloween treats.

For your free copy of "Microwave Peanut Recipes," send your name and address to Peanut Advisory Board, 1133 Avenue of the Americas, 16th floor, New York, N.Y. 10036. Be sure to requst "Microwave Peanut Recipes."

The recipes are very easy to make — not much room at all for goofs. In Peanut Butter Crunch, cook the sugar and syrup, stop to stir, and then continue cooking another minute or so. The sugar should be dissolved. The mixture will look quite clear and be barely starting to boil when done. Don't cook too long or the end result will be sugary and hard.

In Peanutty Pretzels, be careful not to overheat the white chocolate bark. Start with a perfectly dry container and use a dry spoon for stirring. Any moisture will cause the bark to "lump." Again, microwave no longer than needed. Intervals of microwaving 30 seconds on Medium and stirring are the safest way to melt the bark. If overheated, the bark will clump together and be almost impossible to work with. This is also true for melting the butterscotch chips in Jiffy Goober Haystacks.

Peanut Butter Crunch

1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup granulated sugar
1 jar (12 ounces, 1½ cups) crunchy peanut butter
6 cups crisp rice cereal

Stir together syrup and sugar in a microwavable 2-quart measure. Microwave (High) 1½ minutes. Stir well. Then microwave (High) 1 minute or until just starting to boil and sugar is dissolved. Stir in peanut butter until well-blended. Add cereal and mix well. Pour into a buttered 8x12-inch pan. when cool, cut into squares. Makes about 2 dozen squares.

Each square: 190 calories, 5g protein, 8g fat, 26g carbohydrate, 98mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Peanutty Pretzels

1 pound white chocolate bark
1 cup peanut butter
1½ cups finely crushed pretzels
⅓ cup finely chopped roasted peanuts

Break bark into chunks and place in a microwavable 2-quart measure. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 2 minutes. Stir. Then microwave (Medium) 30 seconds and stir. Repeat intervals of microwaving and stirring until bark can be stirred smooth. Stir in peanut butter, pretzels and peanuts. Drop by teaspoon onto waxed paper or spoon into candy molds, preferably peanut-shaped. Chill until firm. These freeze well. Makes about 64 pieces (1½ pounds).

Each piece: 95 calories, 2g protein, 5g fat, 11g carbohydrate, 182mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Variation (I like this better — it has more crunch and looks nicer): Follow recipe above, but coarsely crush or break pretzels in about ½ -inch pieces to make 3 to 3½ cups and coarsely chop peanuts. Drop by teaspoon onto waxed paper. Makes about 48 pieces.

Jiffy Goober Haystacks

1 package (6 ounces) butterscotch chips
⅓ cup peanut butter
1 cup roasted peanuts
1 can (3 ounces, 1½ cups) chow mein noodles

Place chips and peanut butter in a microwavable 2-quart measure or casserole. Microwave (High) 1 minute, stir. then microwave (High 30 seconds and stir. Repeat intervals of microwaving and stirring until bark can be stirred smooth. Stir in peanuts and chow mein noodles until well-coated. Form into clusters on waxed paper. Allow to harden. Makes 36 pieces.

Each piece: 71 calories, 2g protein, 5g fat, 5g carbohydrate, 34mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Questions and answers —

Q. How do you prevent peanut brittle from getting sticky? How do you tell when it's done? I know I can't leave a regular candy thermometer in during microwaving, and the probe just keeps shutting off.

A. You're right, you can't leave a regular candy thermometer in during microwaving. You're also right about using the temperature probe. A probe registers only to 200°F, while peanut brittle doneness temperature is 290-300°F.

The most accurate way to judge doneness of peanut brittle and other cooked microwave candy is with a microwave candy thermometer, which can be left in during microwaving. Microwave candy thermometers are available in some specialty shops, or in hardware or department stores.

You can guess when many microwave peanut brittle recipes are done. Judge by the color — the mixture will turn a light golden brown. However, this is tricky because if cooked too long, peanut brittle can burn; if not cooked enough, it will be sticky.

You could use the old-fashioned cold-water test to judge doneness, but this adds time and isn't the most accurate either. The test is done this way: Put cold water in a glass measure. When peanut brittle has microwaved the minimum time and it's boiling rapidly and syrupy-looking, spoon about a half teaspoon into the cold water. If the syrup forms thin brittle threads, it's done. If not, microwave a minute longer and test. Keep repeating until syrup reaches the brittle stage.

Recipes in this column are tested in 600- and 650-watt microwave ovens. With an oven of different wattage output, timings may need slight adjustment.

Joyce Batcher is an independent home economist microwave specialist. She is author of "Microwave Family Favorites" and editor of "A Batch of Ideas" newsletter.

This Last Lead Line Was Her Finest

Robin Lawrence, from White Hall, Baltimore Co., Maryland, won the Keystone Lead Line at KILE on Saturday. Robin wore a J.H. Collectibles 100 percent wool knee-length suit and a fuchsia silk blouse with matching accessories with gold jewelry and a black hat.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Robin Lawrence knew this was going to be her last show. So with the grace under pressure exhibited by so many Keystone Lead Line winners before her, she moved elegantly past the judges, all her nervousness and apprehension contained beneath her J.H. Collectibles best.

But in what many believed to be the closest race in the history of the coveted Lead Line championship at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), first place was nearly a draw. About 20 contestants waited anxiously on the Farm Show complex floor as, painfully slowly, the judges tallied the results.

But Robin simply waited, smiling, holding proudly onto her registered Suffolk ewe. The 19-year-old radiology sophomore from Salem College held the most in control, poise, and overall dress when she captured the first place championship in the senior lead line show on Saturday.

Robin, from White Hall, Baltimore Co., Maryland, looked "dazzling," according to a show promotion expert, in her J.H. Collectibles 100 percent wool knee-length suit. Robin wore a fuchsia silk blouse with matching accessories with gold jewelry and a black hat.

A 10-year White Hall 4-H member and a first-time winner at KILE, Robin guided her registered Suffolk ewe to the judging table, showing considerable poise and control — some of the toughest requirements to clinch a lead line, according to Dianne Conaway, Newville, sheep judge.

"The idea of the Lead Line is to get people excited about wool," said Conaway, an advisor to the Junior Suffolk Sheep Association. "Contestants are judged on a combination of looks and how they control the sheep. The accessories complement the source of wool, and contestants are judged according to how they dress and control their sheep."

Contestants must wear clothing of at least 80 percent wool, either hand-made or purchased. They are judged on outfit, poise and personality, and control of the sheep.

Kami Hillegass, 11, from Berlin, Pennsylvania, was the champion junior division winner at the Keystone Lead Line. A student at Berlin Elementary, Kami has exhibited previously at the Lead Line as well as the Somerset Co. Fair.

Kami wore a plum-colored 100 percent wool blouse, hand-knit and spun from the fleece of her first breeding ewe. The skirt was also 100 percent wool, lined, and accompanied by hand-knit 100 percent wool socks and a 100 percent wool felt hat.

Kami lead a Suffolk yearling ewe in the championship.

Judges for the show were Mrs. Joe Parker, outfit judge, a professional seamstress from Allentown; Louise Wagner, poise and personality judge, co-owner of Stehly Woodcrafts from Easton, Pennsylvania; and Diane Conaway, Newville, sheep judge.

Following is a list of show placings.

A Society on "Overload"

Last night when I was reading a magazine instead of sleeping, I saw this statement, "Overload' more than any other word threatens to characterize the lives of most people I know."

I thought "How true!" Our society is running on overload — that is running ourselves straight into the ground.

Do we have any other choice? Is there such a thing as a healthy balance?

Do you want to do it all, see it all? Are you always afraid that you are missing something important? Do you feel like a failure when you say "No"?

Finding a balance. For so long, we've tried to balance the areas of our lives by cramming more activities into already busy days and hours. (If we could just do things more efficiently . . .!) Good management skills are important, but they don't always solve the problem. By working more efficiently, we sometimes end up just being very tired — not necessarily satisfied.

Instead of trying to find the balance through buying more things, competing for higher positions, striving for the perfect result, Richard and Linda Eyre, authors of Life Balance, suggest a "quality approach." They encourage adults to think longer about what really matters and subtract activities that don't contribute to those goals.

The authors also turn around the familiar catch-phrases "If something's worth doing, it's worth doing well." and "Don't just sit there, do something." into these more balanced phrases: "If a thing is just barely worth doing, just barely do it." and "Don't just do something, sit there (and decide your priorities)." For me as a person, who as a middle child competed for everything and had the protestant work ethic drummed into my head (and hands), these are hard to swallow. Yet I know they have value.

Too many things are happening in our families, on our farms, in our communities, schools, and offices. We cannot participate in all the opportunities available to us. We must choose.

Ask yourself, "Will this matter in five years?" Simplify your life by picking one or two efforts that will give lasting significance. Consider a service project for other people. Seeing the energy you spend result in changed lives is gratifying. The future of our communities and families depends on healthy, capable people.

I'm an organizer and a list-maker. If you are too, here are some ideas to help you use your lists to balance your life. On the top of your "To Do" list, write one item that is for yourself, one item that is for your family, and one item that is for your work (if you are a homemaker, this work is the management of your house). If at the end of the day or week these are the only things you have done, you have done well!

Too often we spend all our energy doing things — the dishes, the laundry, the bills, the grass — and forget to do something to strengthen ourselves, our children, our marriages.

Secondly, create a column on the right side of the page for the things that you didn't plan that just happened. Write down when you treated yourself to a second glance at the gorgeous harvest moon or when your toddler snuggled up on your lap to watch TV. Make a note of the time spent when a friend called needing your encouragement. These are things that you can't plan, that just happen. These also are often the things that give our lives meaning, that refresh us, that realign our priorities.

Try to plan a week at a time. Ask, "If I only get one thing done this week, what does it need to be?" . . . one thing at work/home, one thing with your family, one thing for yourself. When you accomplish this one thing remember that you are gaining balance. If you cross a few more items off that perpetual list, give yourself a gold star. Include in your plan a short sabbatical from work — whatever that may be.

Take good care of yourself. Remember to be realistic. We shouldn't expect life to be one joyful moment after another because it isn't. But take off the blinders that you wear as you rush through your day. Look at the things around you. The moments do come. Treat yourself to the time it takes to enjoy those moments as they happen — even if it means "wasting time."

A.W. Tozer invites this kind of living. He writes, "It will cost something to walk slowly in the parade of the ages while excited men of time rush about confusing motion with progress."

Don't get caught up in motion that leads only to exhaustion.

Try Yogurt For Lean & Creamy Soups

A steaming bowl of New England clam chowder or potato bisque comforts the soul as it nourishes the body. But a growing concern over fat and calories has made cream soups a special occasion treat at best. This need not be the case, however, thanks to the many lowfat products in the dairy case.

Skim milk, buttermilk and lowfat yogurt all can be used to make a slimming and more nutritious cream soup. Low in both calories and fat, skim milk may be substituted for the milk or cream in traditional recipes. Ditto for buttermilk if a tangy flavor is desired. Adding a little nonfat dry milk with either skim milk or buttermilk will add body but few calories.

Plain yogurt gives a pleasant tang and creamy richness to vegetable-based cream soups. Cooking the vegetables until tender, then pureeing them in the food processor or blender, ensures a smooth texture. The pureed vegetables also take the place of the cooked mixture of flour and butter traditionally used to thicken cream soups. Vegetable-thickened cream soups tend to be lower in calories and have a lighter, fresher flavor. Yogurt Potato Soup pairs nutritious potatoes with carrots, celery and onion. The vegetables are diced or shredded to shorten cooking time to just 15 minutes. For textural interest, half of the vegetables are pureed and blended with the yogurt. The remaining vegetables and broth are then added with the seasonings. Crumbled bacon imparts a subtle smoky flavor. If you are on a low cholesterol diet, eliminate the bacon.

For best results when using yogurt in soups, be sure yogurt is at room temperature. Add a small amount of the hot pureed vegetables to the yogurt, then combine the two mixtures and heat through. Boiling can cause the soup to curdle.

Yogurt also makes an attractive garnish for both hot and cold "cream" soups. Spoon plain yogurt from the carton without stirring and sprinkle with cracked pepper or an appropriate herb.

Yogurt Potato Soup

3 cups peeled, diced potatoes (approx. 2 lbs.)
1 cup EACH: chopped celery, chopped onion, shredded carrot
2 cans (10¾ oz. each) condensed chicken broth
1½ cups plain lowfat yogurt, at room temperature
½ teaspoon EACH: salt, pepper
6 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Combine potatoes, celery, onion, carrots and condensed chicken broth in a 4-quart Dutch oven. Bring to boiling. Cover and simmer until vegetables are tender, about 15 minutes. Place one-half of vegetable-liquid mixture in work bowl of food processor or blender. Cover and process until pureed. Return pureed mixture to Dutch oven. Stir a small amount of pureed mixture into yogurt. Combine yogurt mixture with vegetables. Stir in seasonings and bacon until well combined. Heat through, but DO NOT BOIL. Yield 8 cups. Calories per 1 cup serving: 150. Protein 9 grams. Fat 4 grams. Carbohydrate 18 grams. Calcium 111 milligrams.

Celebrate October Pork Month With These Meaty Recipes

Today's pork offers more nutrient value for fewer calories than ever before. An average 3-ounce serving of lean pork contains 200 calories or less, with about 80 milligrams of cholesterol. And less than a third of the fat in pork is saturated — an important consideration for those watching their fat intake. Pork offers high-quality protein and is rich in essential B-vitamins and minerals.

Try pork.

STUFFING OVER CHOPS

6-8 lean pork chops, ¾ -inch or less thick
14 to 16 slices of bread
1½ cups milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt

3-4 teaspoons poultry seasonings
1 tablespoon parsely flakes
1 cup water
½ stalk celery, diced and sauteed

Preheast oven to 350 degrees. Trim fat off of chops. Arrange chops in a single layer in a shallow baking pan.

In large bowl, tear up half of the bread slices into bite-sized pieces. With a fork, stir in milk and egg. Then sprinkle half of the seasonings over the bread mixture. Mix well. Add the remaining bread (torn up), 1 cup water, remaining half of seasonings and celery. Mix.

Layer stuffing over chops, being careful to cover meat. Bake in 350-degree oven for 45-60 minutes or just until top is slightly crusty and chops are cooked. HINT: The chops can be de-boned to better fit in pan or cut for children.

Pumpkin Pie

1½ cups pumpkin, cooked and mashed

1 cup sugar
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2 tablespoons flour
Cinnamon
1 unbaked pie crust

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

In recent years, a merciful turn of public sentiment from apathy to caring has resulted in what seems to be a growing network of support systems.

We have incredibly valuable counseling groups for victims of crimes, victims of diseases, victims of accidents, victims of natural disasters. Then there are also highly successful support systems for personal challenges such as losing weight, stopping smoking and dealing with a variety of addictions. (None yet that I know of, however, for us "chocoholics.")

The layered-look condition of this household's desks and the kitchen table of late leads me to conclude that I have a pressing need to join up with some support group dealing with "information overload."

Information overload is a condition just recently recognized by those folks who address emerging societial problems. Beset by the age of computer exchange, satellite communications, facts by fax and television shopping, the human comprehension capacity threatens to short out from information overload.

Within the confines of our farmstead, this phenomenon primarily takes the form of printed matter which arrives regularly via our dependable local postal persons. Some of the information is vital and of absolute necessity to the business. Other is mere tree-killing paper clutter.

Checks for those commodities produced from this farm top the necessities list. More abundant by frequency and sheer paper volume is that category we bunch together as "bills." An ongoing tally of these two categories comprise a third, known as the "books." All this, of course, must remain on file for years.

Another set of "books" maintains for perpetuity the performance and pedigree data on our herd of registered Holsteins. Registry certificates, production printouts both collective and individual, herd performance sheets, breeding records, records of milk shipped, milk quality reports, dairy barn inspection sheets and....well, you get the idea.

Not to forget the continuing flow of another category of critical mass-insurance paperwork. From liability to workmen's compensation, from vehicular to health coverage, insurance is a costly but absolute requirement. And, recent changes - always toward yet additional paperwork - require more centralized record-keeping on land we farm, crops we grow, and our conservation participation.

Arriving on a regular basis are requests that need responses of various sorts, like meeting reservations, appointment reminders, and IRS tax forms.

Less mandated but of continuing education interest is the flow of newsletters and periodicals containing all sorts of information we should read and digest to keep up with the rapid technological and economic changes of the agriculture business. Since reading it all would preclude getting any actual farming done, we've become highly selective of what gets read beyond dinnertable speedreading - headlines and pictures. Indepth stuff gets filed for catchup on an occasional rainy evening or a February blizzard.

Buried in these layers are lighthearted things like pertinent clippings. Some of personal interest go to distant family members. An eagle restoration article awaits sharing with a birdwatching buddy. The pizza coupons are on hold for the youngest, or for some evening no one has had a moment to pause for - or fix - supper.

And, at the same time shopping malls proliferate like rabbits in springtime, a bounty of mail order catalogs further overloads our household information system. Workwear and tulip bulbs, footgear and gift items, panty hose, computer softwear, jewelry, generators, office supplies and food packages are available via phone and credit card.

Perhaps some network is already in place to deal with information overload. If you know of one, let me know - I could always subscribe to their newsletter.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Farm Women Lancaster Society #20 met at the home of Mary Shirk on thursday, October 4. Lillian Winters was the co-hostess and following the refreshments she conducted the devotional period. For scripture, she read a portion of Psalm 118 followed by a poem "I Have Found Autumn" and a reading "A Good Day." The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and following the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag the president, Anna Mary Groff, conducted the business meeting.

The Sunshine Committee reported one sympathy and two get-well cards were sent. Two hostess gifts for the County Convention were made by Dorothy Shirk and the president mentioned there are only 806 members in the county. Jean Ressel read the invitation to the library on October 6 for the celebration honoring the publication of the Solanco Heritage. She also read two thank you notes for contributions sent previously. It was announced that Berks County will be hosting the 1991 Spring Rally.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" and the November meeting will be held at the home of Pauline Reinhart with Dorothy Crawford as co-hostess. The afternoon was concluded by opening the Secret Pal gifts.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon County Farm Women Group #20 met recently at the home of Barb Harding with 21 members in attendance.

The speaker for the evening was Charles Strauphar who was instrumental in the starting of Middlecreek Wildlife Preservation. He gave an excellent presentation of slides and was very informative about wildlife.

Tickets were given out for County Convention on Oct. 13 and also for the Ice Capades at Hershey Park on October 26. Members were informed that Hershey is charging $2 to park each car this year.

Plans were made for the October 15 meeting at Funck's Family Restaurant for breakfast in observence of Farm Women's Day.

Kids Pedal And Pull Their Way To A Championship

Morgeaux F., with the help of Pedal Power Pull manager Joe Ruth, gets some instructions on pushing the pedal to victory on Saturday at KILE.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — And there they go!

"Go, go, Samuel!"

"Megan, that's it, keep going, keep going!"

"Daniel, just push, push!"

The contestants shouted them on, urging the kids, ages 3-8, to push the longest, the farthest, and the hardest. But the kids at the KILE Pedal Power Pull, sponsored by Evergreen Tractor in Lebanon, knew what to do anyway.

Just keep on pushing the pedal. Until the score keeper let go of the tape (which she did, once), or someone stepped on the tape (which they did, once), or until the weight was too much (just ask some of the kids!), or until you just couldn't push anymore.

In the 8-year-old division, Andrew Blaydon pushed about 107 feet, the longest distance of the contest. And brother Sam won first in the 3-year-old class, pushing a total of 44 feet.

Winners included Megan Fulks, 4-year-old first place, with 33-feet, 10-inches. She got to keep a blue ribbon and a gold trophy. But everybody got to keep a cowboy cap, donated by Evergreen.

Joe Ruth was manager of the pulling contest. Kathy Whittaker, Lebanon Valley National Bank ag loan coordinator, was scorekeeper.

Following is a list of show placings.

KILE Kids Have Fun In Agri-Kid Olympics

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — About 40 youth recently participated in a one-of-a-kind farm activity, while their parents either looked on or displayed sheep and beef at the Farm Show complex.

In its second year, the Lebanon Valley National Bank Agri-Lending service sponsored a one-day, seven-event Agri-Kid Olympics during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE).

According to Kathy Whittaker, agricultural loan cooridnator at LVNB, the purpose of the Agri-Kid Olympics is to offer youth at KILE an alternative activity to watching their parents show livestock.

The kid olympics consists of farm-related competitions. Included are auctioneering, sack races, wheelbarrow racing, laughing contest, horseshoe pitching, hog calling, and a hay bale toss.

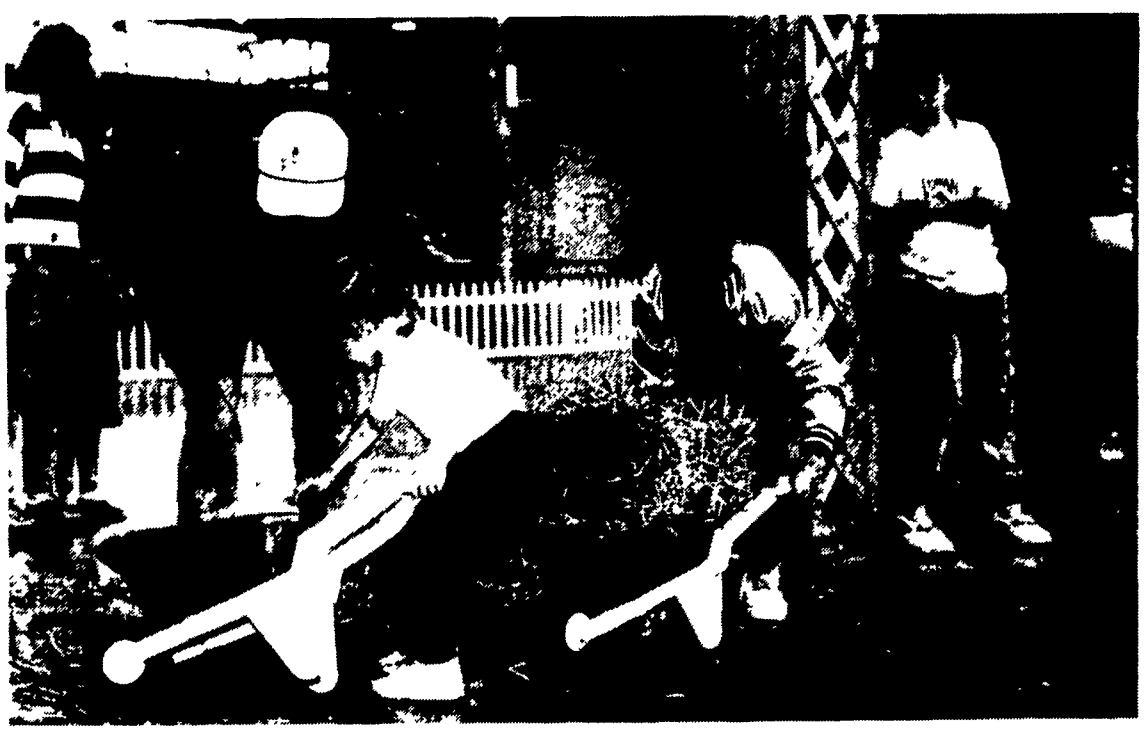
The targeted age group for participation is 3- to 8-years-old. Prizes for a first place finish in any of the competitions was a trophy and a ribbon. Everyone else received a participation ribbon. Also, for this year at least, straw cowboy hats were also presented to all pariticipants.

The event is held in the main exhibit hall of the Farm Show complex near the small arena entrance. According to the official KILE guide, the area is designated as the "entertainment area."

In addition to the Agri-Kid Olympics, other activities offered to youth at KILE include the Evergreen Tractor Company-sponsored pedal pull contest. During that competition, youth, using pedal tractors, simulate adult tractor pulls.

Those who may have missed the 1990 Agri-Kid Olympics should remember to check the official KILE activities list next year. They are to be available through the Farm Show office.

The difference between pushing a wheelbarrow as work and pushing one for fun is evident in the young boy's face.



The trick seems to be keeping the straw bale in the wheelbarrow as Mike Firestine tries to coach this young lady on while the boy seems ready to get the jump on her.

Youth Face Stiff Competition At KILE Sheep Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Youth participating in the Junior Breeding Show at Keystone International Livestock Exposition faced stiff competition among the 1,400 sheep entries.

On Sunday, October 6, competition was held simultaneously with Dan Strahl judging the Suffolk, Dorset, Oxford, and Montadale breeds.

Albert "Buster" Wilson judged the Hampshire, Shropshire, and Southdown breeds.

In preparation for the show, exhibitors washed sheep faces, brushed the wool, and trimmed sheep coats. But cleanliness had no bearing upon behavior. While some docilely followed their exhibitors, others leaped or stood defiantly still.

Some owners claim sheep behave better because they are pets, others say sheep that are pampered do not behave in the show ring.

Both a mixture of pets and "just one of the flock" captured top placings in the day-long show.

Judge Dan Strahl from Greenfield, Indiana fascinates the audience with his ability to turn his back on the entries after he has placed them. Speaking rapidly into a microphone, he lists oral reasons for choosing the placings.

Without a backward glance, he uses identification such as "the lady with the blue sweater in fourth place has a ram that sure is good — biggest I've ever seen. I like its fleece but it should stand more correctly on its rear legs...."

Those who have observed Strahl as judge in many shows claim that they've never seen him make a mistake yet.

Suffolk Queen

Handing out ribbons for the show was Suffolk Queen Annette Lovell from Lyndon, Lycoming County. The 20-year-old queen raises registered Suffolks and has been competing in shows since she was eight years old.

Annette said that she had started raising market lambs but didn't want to come home to an empty pen after sales so she started raising breeder sheep.

Crowned Suffolk Queen on Saturday night at KILE competition, Annette said that she wanted to be queen for a long time. Now a junior at Penn State, Annette is taking dairy and animal science with a management option emphasis on sheep production.

She lives and works with sheep at the college's sheep and beef center.

Suffolk

"I came up to win — and I did," said Susan Wise from Danville, Ohio. The 16-year-old, in her ninth year of showing, took the Suffolk ewe championship with the same ewe that was named reserve champion last year.

"She's my princess, my pride and joy," Susan Wise said of her champion Suffolk ewe.

Purchased from Scott Baird, the yearling ewe has been doing great in shows. "I hope she does well in breeding," Susan said. "I'm nervous about it."

Susan also won a first in the Suffolk spring ewe lamb division. She has about 50 sheep, all to which she becomes emotionally attached. "They must stay on my farm until they die," she said.

Melanie Snyder showed the reserve champion ewe.

Dan Musser from New Middletown, Ohio, showed the champion ram. The reserve champion ram belongs to Andy Kumpf from Norristown.

Heath Geiman was named champion showman in the Suffolk division. He is the son of Dave and Becky Geiman of Westminister, Md. Mark Brubaker of Halifax was second in showmanship.

Hampshire

Christine Baxter took a double win with her champion ewe and with first place showmanship in the Hampshire division.

Christine said the winning ewe, the tallest in her class, was the centennial national champion ewe at Louiville, Kentucky, last year. She hopes that the yearling ewe that orginally came from a Missouri breeder will produce good lambs.

Judge Albert "Buster" Wilson said that Christine handled her sheep well, kept her head up, and knew when to set up and when to move.

Christine is the daughter of Carolyn and James Baxter of Marlin-

(Turn to Page B16)

Judge Dan Strahl from Greenfield, Indiana, chose Christine Baxter as the top showman in the Junior breeding sheep Hampshire competition held at KILE.

Darla Phillips, right, is only five, but she took championship honors with her Southdown ewe and ram. Her parents, Denny and Debra Phillips, and baby Darcie have 65-head of Southdown, Columbia, and Suffolk sheep on their Amity farm.

KILE Chooses The Best Of Columbia, Merino, Rambouillet, Corridale Breeds

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The four-day KILE sheep show climaxed when the Columbia, Merino, Rambouillet, and Corridale breeds paraded before judge James Westhoven from Lancaster, Ohio.

"I'm seeing much better sheep than a year ago," Westhoven said. Sheep exhibitors agreed that competition was stiffer than ever at the 34th annual show.

Columbia

Out of 41 entries, a happy Mike Copeland from MKM Farm in Lewistown, Ohio, showed a Columbia yearling ram.

"So far, he hasn't been beaten. He got champion at the Eastern National and at the Ohio State Fair," Copeland said.

The ram was bred and raised on the Copeland farm where 50 Columbia ewes and about 50 other breeds are raised. This was the first year that Mike Copeland has been to KILE. The ram will be used as a stud on the MKM Farm.

Richard and Mary Ann Johnson of Lakewood, New Jersey, had a pleasant surprise on Monday when one of their Columbia ewes from their Hyline Farms was chosen champion ewe.

Mrs. Johnson said that in other competition the ewe had been named reserve ewe to another ewe from the same flock that is owned

Judge James Westhoven, center, judged these Merinos to have the best fleece. Matthew Best, right, and Jerry Frame, left.

KILE Chooses The Best

and bred on their farm.

"From here, she will go to Louiville," Johnson said.

Merino

Premier breeder and premier exhibitor went to Moorehouse Farms in Red Hook, N.Y. The owner Albrecht Pichler said Moorehouse Farm is relatively new since he purchased his first Merinos in 1983. "I looked around, decided I wanted a wool breed. I knew Merinos were the most valuable for wool and started with good stock," he said.

The reserve champion ewe and ram was bred and raised on his own farm. Pichler said some of his 300-head Merinos have been imported from Australian farms since they have superior wool.

The Jerry Frame Family showed the champion ewe, an early spring lamb and they had the best fleece from fall ram.

Frame, a steady contender for top titles during other KILE competitions, has a 40-head flock at Blue Rock, Ohio.

Rambouillet

Billy George Leib is only nine years old, but he made an impressive showing with both champion ewe and ram.

"I've been showing since I've been born," he said.

His mother confirms his statement, "That's no joke. He was here in utero."

Billy has 20 Rambouillet at the family's Mechanicsburg farm where his parents raise Columbias.

Billy George said he did better than he expected. He likes to see if he can get more ribbons than his parents and this year he did.

Premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards went to Joan Hess & Sons of Cable Ohio. She showed both reserve champion ram and ewe.

She raises 175 ewes that she begins showing at fairs in the area starting Jully 11.

"They've been doing really well this year," she said. This was Joan's 32nd trip to KILE. "It's tough competition," she said.

Although she had received the premier breeder and exhibitor awards in the past, this was the first time in recent years.

Corriedales

Valley Lamb and Wool Company from Middletown, Maryland, took Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards in the Corriedale

Hal and Carole Walker, owners, said they own and breed everything they show from their 175-head purebred flock. The Walkers are the third generation to show Valley Lamb and Wool Company. In 1927, the family imported the first Corridale east of the Mississippi from New Zealand. Several additional shipments have been made.

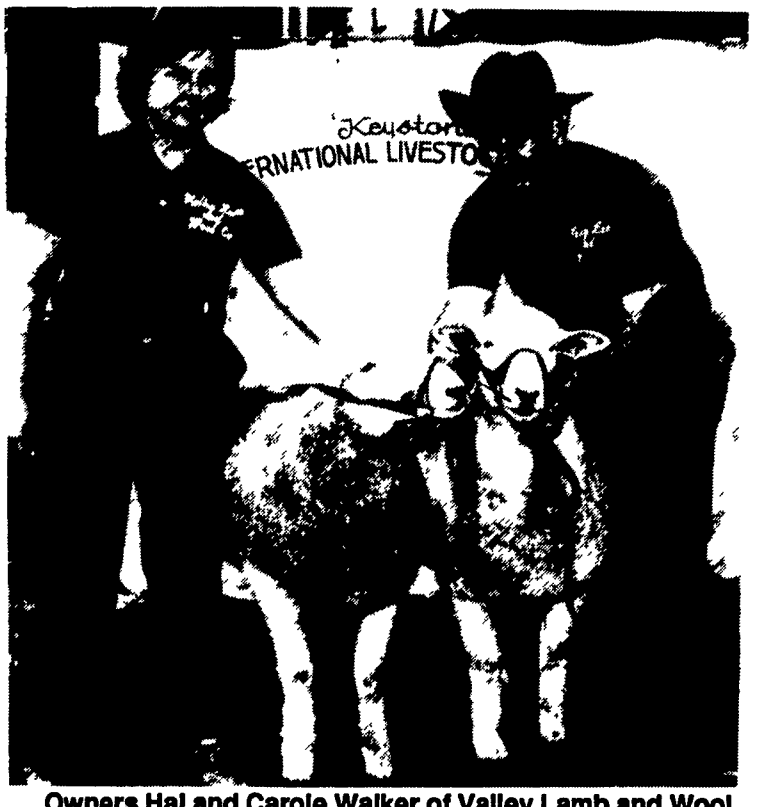
Walker, who has been showing since 1976, said, "I feel doubly good about winning. It's getting harder to win at shows with honest sheep bloodlines and ages."

Carl Ulrich from Springhill Farm in Rhinebeck, New York owned a pair of Corriedale twins to take both champion and reserve honors in the ram class. Ulrich is an attorney who raises about 25 ewes as a hobby on his Springhill farm. The champion twins were sired by the yearling ram champion of last year's KILE competition. The twin rams are doing well in many shows in which they have competed.

(Turn to Page B20)

Although only nine, Billy George Leib had an impressive showing in the Rambouillet breed where he won champion ram and champion ewe placings. His parents, Bob and Susie, show Columbia sheep that they breed and raise on their Mechanicsburg farm.

Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards went to Joan and Charles Hess of Cable, Ohio, in the Rambouillet division.



Owners Hal and Carole Walker of Valley Lamb and Wool Company of Middletown, Maryland, were named Premier Exhibitor and Premier Breeder for their many placings in the Corriedale division.

KILE Sheep Show

ton, West Virginia, where they raise 250 to 300 head of sheep.

Christine has been showing since she was four years old. "I love it," she said. Last year she won the Dorset showmanship title at KILE.

First-year Kile exhibitor Jessica Wood from Jamestown, New York, showed the reserve champion ewe. The ewe, named Moose, also placed fourth in the open show. The daughter of Lyle and Polly Wood has about 25 Hampshires on Culley Farm.

Although new at KILE, Jessica is no novice in the show ring. She has collected numerous ribbons for supreme and grand champion placings in New York shows.

The Hampshire champion ram belongs to McLean and was shown by Paula Davis of Middletown, Maryland.

Matt Trostle, champion Southdown showman, shows off his silver cup and spring ram. With Matt, center front, is his parents, Ronald and Yvonne, and sister Melissa.

For the second year in a row, Precious brought success to Susan Wise of Danville, Ohio. Precious was the grand champion Suffolk ewe and also helped Susan place second in the KILE Leadline competition. Susan, shown with her parents, have about 50 registered Suffolks on their Bo-Lin-Su Farm.

Dorset

Angie Banbury, daughter of Mark and Barb Bambury, who has been showing for eight years and always takes home a win, said that competition was stiffer this year. Even so, she managed to win the champion ewe award in both the junior and open show. She also had the reserve champion market lamb. The Banburys operate B&B Livestock in Danville, Ohio.

Thirteen-year-old Kevin Peters walked away with the reserve grand champion ewe that also placed third in the open show. For his first time at KILE, he thought he did well. Peters is from Slatinger and purchased the reserve champion ewe from Cardinal Creek Farms in Ohio.

With his champion fall ram lamb, Robert Wilson from Dansville, New York, edged out the reserve champion ram owned by Stacy Suffel of Carlisle. Stacy also placed first in senior showmanship in the senior division while Jenny Zerby of Beavertown placed first in the junior showmanship class.

In his first time at KILE, Kevin Peters, 13, showed the reserve champion Dorset ewe.

In her first year at KILE, Jessica Wood of Jamestown, N.Y. showed the reserve champion Hampshire ewe from Culley Farm.

Amy Eshelman from Sinking Spring showed the rerve grand champion ewe, reserve champion ram, and took top showmanship honors in the Oxford division. Her mother stands with her.

swept most of the Shropshire classes by claiming both ram champion and reserve champion plus reserve champion ewe.

Renee Cleversy, Painesville, Ohio, took the grand champion ewe with her Shropshire yearling. She has 60 sheep and shows them at 4-H and lead line competitions.

Southdown

Although only five, Darla Phillips proved her strength by leading both the champion ram and ewe in the show ring. The daughter of Denny and Debbie Phillips of Amity helps at their Walnut Springs Farm, where they raise 65 head of Southdown, Columbia, and Suffolk breeds.

The champion ram was purchased last year from Jaggers, Indiana, and the Phillips have entered him in many shows. "He hasn't been beaten yet," said Darla's dad.

"I love sheep," Darla said, "except I don't like to wash them."

It was Darla's first year of showing, but her sister had shown at KILE last year.

Luke Zerby showed the reserve champion ewe. The Zerby family has 300 sheep on their Beavertown farm.

Leon Hunter showed Bart, the reserve champion ram. The 12-year-old son of Leon and Pat Hunter works with the 50 sheep on their Green Hill Acres in Fleetwood. The Southdown fall ram has accumulated many ribbons at fairs. It was purchased from Howart of Oklahoma.

Champion Southdown showman went to Matt Trostle, an

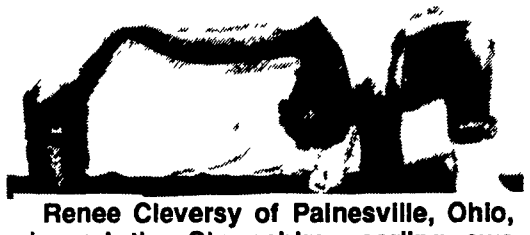
(Turn to Page B19)

Jason Bixler showed the champion ram and ewe in the Oxford division. Stacy Suffel, left, who won senior showmanship in the Dorset division and had the reserve champion ram, helped Jason who has about 30 sheep on his Mt. Holly Springs farm.

Jenny Zerby of Beavertown shows off her Junior Showmanship trophy. The Zerby family raises 300 sheep at their Snyder County farm.

Twelve-year-old Leon Hunter had the reserve champion Southdown ram. He and his parents Leon and Pat Hunter have 50 Southdown sheep on their Green Hill Acres Farm in Fleetwood.

A veteran KILE winner, Angie Banbury from Danville, Ohio, showed the champion Dorset ewe in both the open and junior breeding sheep show and the reserve champion market lamb.



Renee Cleversy of Painesville, Ohio, showed the Shropshire yearling ewe grand champion.

11-year-old from Red Lion. It was the second year in a row that Matt maintained his win.

Oxford

Amy Eshelman and Jason Bixler vollied for top placings in the Oxford division. With his spring ram lamb, Jason took the champion ram title, while Amy settled for reserve. In the ewe class, the duo switched places with Amy taking the championship title for her yearling ewe and Jason the reserve title with his spring ewe lamb.

Amy also placed first in showmanship. She got the Williamson Traveling Trophy to keep for one year. The 16-year-old daughter of Larry and Susan Eshelman of Sinking Spring has 30 sheep on their Rainbow Acres Farm. She said that she always does well with Oxfords.

Jason Bixler has 30 Oxford at Mountain View Acres in Mt. Holly Springs. He said the ram was homebred and the ewe was from S&J of Illinois. Both entries were winners at other fairs. The son of Ron and Carolyn Bixler has been showing for eight years.

Montadale

Except for reserve champion ram, three Carvey children from New Windsor, Maryland, wrapped up the Montadale competition. Davey Carvey took the champion ram and champion ewe. His sister Melissa had the reserve champion ewe and Alexander Drenning had the reserve champion ram.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This is probably article number 1,040 — give or take one or two. Twenty years ago I got a phone call from the editor of Lancaster Farming after submitting an article to him. You see I was not satisfied that there were no items in the paper for women.

A year or more before, I had given them my opinion and at that time they asked the home economist from Lancaster County Extension to write each week. That was fine but it still was not what I had in mind as I'd enjoyed regular columns in other papers written by farm women. I really never had in mind that I would be the one writing them. But, I was flattered that I was asked to contribute regularly.

Things surely change over the years. Twenty years ago when I sat down to write I'd be interrupted continually by the children. There was always some question to be answered. "Where is this?", "May I do that?", or "When will you be finished?"

One child worked in New York state as a nurse, one was in college, two were in high school and two were in elementary school. I was an officer in Parent Teachers Associaiton and attended for more than 20 years. As a deacon at our church, I kept all of the church records up to date and we had over 1,000 members at that time. The three children were very active in 4-H and I was a leader in the Community Club. Now the children are grown and gone. However, some things don't change — I still keep myself too busy at home and away from home.

Now as I sit down to write this article all that I hear is the wind in the trees and the pounding of a hammer as Allen puts new roofing on the barn. The telephone rings and disturbs my line of thought. The caller reminds me that I am working as majority inspector on election day in November and will I help to set up the voting machines. So I say "yes" and add still another experience to my busy schedule.

Fleece Awards

Top fleece awards went to the Charles R. Clouser farm in Nova, Ohio. This is the second year in a row that Clouser got the top award. Elaine Clouser said that since her husband is deceases she raises 80-head of Merinos.

Her daughter Kathy Smith, who runs a separate sheep farm in Jeromesville, Ohio, placed runnerup with a fleece from her Merino flock. The Smiths raise 200 to 250 registered Merinos, Southdown, Dorset, Corridales, and Cheviot.

Merinos are known to have the best wool in the world. The secret to winning the top fleece, according to Clouser, is the daily care.

"We don't let the sheep out in bad weather and we don't throw hay across them when feeding them," she said.

Janet Mawhinney shows off the wool wallhanging that will be raffled at the Keystone Shepherds Symposium. Tickets are available for a $1 donation to the Make-It-With-Wool fund. The drawing will be held December 8 at the Keystone Shepherds' Symposium, which will be at the Sheraton Lancaster, Lancaster, on December 7 through 9.

The Columbia champion ewe showed by Mary Ann Johnson from Lakewood, N.J. said from here it goes to Louisville competition.

Carl Ulrich owned the twin yearling rams that took champion and reserve placings in the Corriedale division.

So far this grand champion Columbia ram has not been beaten. Mike Copeland from Lewistown, Ohio, bred and raised it on his own farm where it will be used as a stud.

Today's working mother.

She does it all — breeds early, calves easily, milks well, weans heavy calves. And in the feedlot, her calves produce Choice YG 2 carcasses at 14 months.

She's a Simmental — growth and maternal traits in one package. Backed by more than 15 years of performance testing, she's ready to go to work for you.

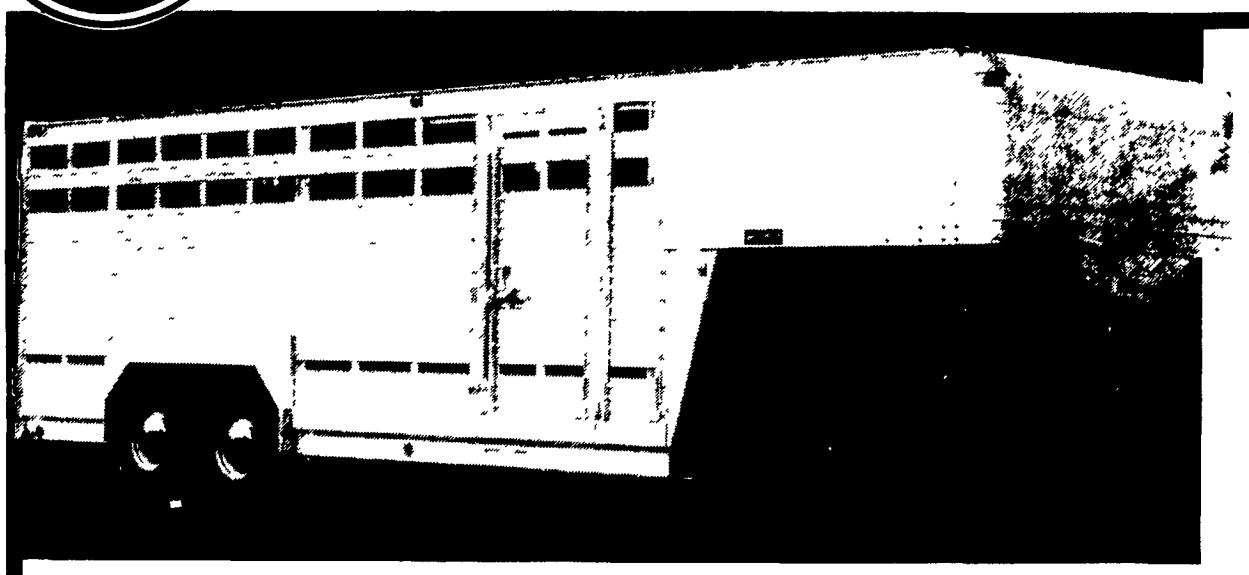
INTRODUCING THE REDESIGNED

WRANGLER



OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

- LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

READ WHAT DAIRYMEN HAVE TO SAY ABOUT Master Mix ProTek DAIRY FEED

Neffdale Farms Paradise, PA

"The main reason I switched feed companies was to get some of my breeding or services/conception down. Breeding isn't something you change overnight, but I have to say it has been consistently getting better. The last six months I've seen the most improvement.

"I like the Testmaker 18 HF and Master Mix ProTek pellets because you don't have the separation you have in meal type feeds. The cows eat the topdress pellets so I don't have any trouble getting it into them. I also feed heavier on the topdress feed soon after freshening because it gets my cows on feed a lot faster and keeps them on feed. I also think the TMR helps get more feed into the cows. The cows are definitely in better condition overall and the total consumption of the feed has improved.

"I try to put in good forages so I cut down my costs on purchased protein. The biggest effect I've seen since putting in the TMR in January of 1989 has been a $500 increase in income over feed cost.

"One thing I have to say about Sensenig's service, they are very conscientious about their feed delivery. It isn't just one truck driver--it's all of them. They do a good job of stacking the bags and keeping inventory fresh. I can't say that about a lot of feed companies."

* Testmaker 18 HF and Testmaker 18 Hi Peak™

"We started topdressing Testmaker 18 HF in 1986 and one month later we started feeding Sensenig's Custom Flaked Dairy. The cows responded to the feed pretty quick. We were on a mineral program and I always thought the cows could do a little better. We couldn't get them to peak and hold there for any length of time. Now, every year since we changed we slowly keep climbing. The last ten months we averaged over 60 lbs. of milk per cow with a 3.6 test. We topdress the Hi Peak pellets to the highest producers to help hold the fat on better. We have no problem feeding the Hi Peak as far as palatability is concerned. We also feed grain four times a day. Our breeding isn't too bad, either. On our last DHIA, average services/conception is 1.8, calving interval is 12.3, and 70 days to the first service. Also, two months ago our herd average reached 19,300."

"With Master Mix research, they came up with a product called Master Mix ProTek and it does work. With forage testing, they can give you a balanced ration. The 1890's are a good investment because it lets the high producing cows digest a lot of energy and fiber without overfeeding them and the price is right so that these cows will make a better profit. I changed off a mineral program 3½ years ago and, now, my cows are eating a lot better than they used to. I can get the feed into them without stuffing them full or overfeeding them. My production is up and my test is also better by approximately 2 points."

A Sincere THANK YOU To The Above Dairymen For Their Time And Effort.

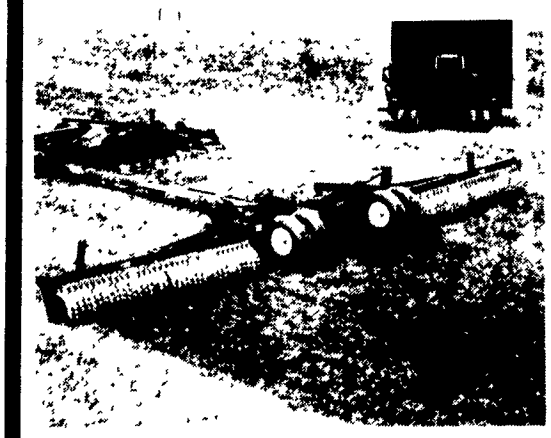
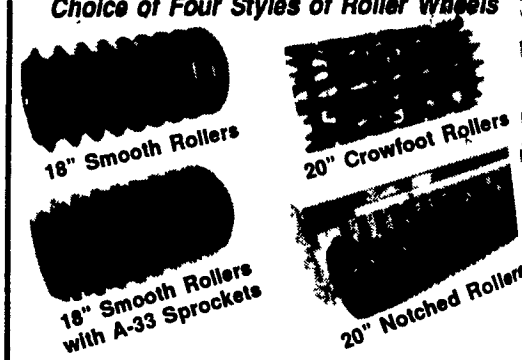
NEW X-FOLD PULVERIZERS



Choice of Four Styles of Roller Wheels



The pulverizer has been a basic tool for nearly 100 years and Brillion has been building them since 1895. Look at these features:

- Automatic Transport Lock
- Telescoping Drawbar
- Hitch Adjustment
- Cost Efficient-Energy Savings
- Floating Wings
- Narrow Transport Width

Another outstanding feature of BRILLION's X-Fold Pulverizers is the Hitch Adjustment. The pulverizer drawbar can pivot vertically in field position. Three thicknesses of shims are provided on the braces on each side of the drawbar (⅛", ¼" & ½"). These shims are used to limit soil pushing in front of the rollers.

Berks Cattlemen To Hold Calf Sale

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Berks County Cattlemen's Association will hold its third annual Dutch Country Calf Sale here at the fairgrounds on Saturday, October 27, 1990. This year's event will feature a pre-sale youth conference, according to sale chairperson, Sheila Miller.

"Our Pre-sale Youth Conference is an educational workshop designed to be informative for both the new and experienced youth exhibitors," Miller explained. "We will be hearing from experts in the field of cattle nutrition who will discuss how to feed calves for top gain and show condition. A discussion on the basics of keeping calves healthy, with how-to information on taking rectal temperatures and administering medication, will also be included. A fitting conclusion to the conference will be a segment on blocking and fitting calves for show, followed by sale judge Ron Miller's selection of champions."

Speakers for the conference include: Clyde Brubaker of Vigortone, Pete Crout of Moormans, Dr. Lynn Sammons of Willow Creek Animal Hospital, and Susan Smith of Rolling Shade Custom Fitting. Other commercial exhibitors will be providing information at the sale.

The sale of steers and registered heifers will begin at 1:30 p.m. This year's sale features 24 steers, including crossbred and purebred calves, and several registered heifers --- Angus, Charolais, and Polled Herefords. Auctioneer for the sale is Harry Bachman, Annville.

Consignors for the 1990 sale include: Elmer Stehman, Robesonia; Eastern Land & Resources, Lee & Elene Hitz, Annville; Deitschland Farm, Mike and Sheila Miller, Womelsdorf; Emilie Miller, Womelsdorf; Ken Hebel, Grantville; Mylin Messick, Messick Farms, Middletown; Mountain View Farm, Myerstown; MAP Farm, Womelsdorf; Walnut Lane Farm, Frank and April Moll, Orwigsburg; Eric and Jon Harnish, Lebanon; and Ann Stump, Mohrsville.

"During its two year history, the Dutch Country Calf Sale has produced calves that have gone on to be tagged grand champion at five fairs, and reserve grand champion at two fairs," remarked Miller. "For the past two years, the grand champion steer of the Lebanon County Fair was purchased at the Dutch Country sale. We're proud of that winning record.

For more information about the sale, contact any of the following: Sheila Miller, 215-589-5617; Ken Winebark, 717-274-2801; Mike Firestine, 717-866-4185; or Clyde Myers, 215-378-1327.

Bank President Hosts 4-H/FFA Reception

BALTIMORE, Md.— Gene Swackhamer, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, hosted a reception September 16 to honor some of the 4-Hers and FFA members exhibiting at the Maryland State Fair.

Since 1983, the bank has visited the state fair and selected entries from the 4-H and FFA arts and crafts exhibits. After the fair, these items are placed on display in the executive gallery of the bank for approximately 30 days.

The bank also coordinates with other businesses to have the exhibit displayed on their premises to further promote 4-H. Last year the exhibit appeared at several First National Bank locations.

This year, Forest Hill State Bank has agreed to allow the items to be exhibited at four of their offices. Sparks State Bank has also graciously permitted the exhibit to be displayed in their Hereford office.

Swackhamer currently serves as treasurer of the board of trustees of the National 4-H Council. He received the 4-H National Alumni Award last year for his continued service and support of this outstanding youth organization.

FARM MANAGEMENT

PRICING STANDING CORN

Roland P. Freund
Regional Farm Management Agent

When corn growers considered the marketing options available to them years ago, they normally thought in terms of selling dry shelled corn.

Today there are some buyers who wish to purchase corn right out of the field. They store this in their silos as either silage or high-moisture grain.

In such situations we get questions such as "what's the right price?" There is no set price in our free land on farm commodities. A buyer offers a price and the seller is free to accept or reject it. The seller needs to be able to compare the offer with the alternative returns which might be available in the marketplace.

Grower's alternative

If the corn crop is allowed to mature, it could be harvested and sold as dry shelled grain.

Let's assume that the yield checks indicate that it will yield 110 bushels. By the time it is dry enough to shell, local price could be expected to drop to $2.30 per bushel.

The grower could gross $253.
Less: Harvest - $23
Haul - $ 5
Drying - $30
Net Return per acre $195.

If the grower can net more than this by selling elsewhere, then it might be to his advantage to do so. The form in which the corn is harvested should make little difference to the grower.

However, if silage is removed, the grower should be compensated for the fertility value of the stover. In our example, this might be about $30 ($5 per dry matter ton of silage).

Hi-moisture grain

When the 30 percent moisture grain is harvested, market prices are normally about 30 cents per bushel above harvest-season lows. But a grower might be unwilling to discount the price because nobody knows how low it will go.

However, since the grower saves the drying cost, he should be willing to pass that saving on to the buyer. It would be very reasonable, therefore, to expect that early season high-moisture shelled corn sales should be priced at least 15 to 20 cents below the pre-harvest market price for dry shelled bushel equivalents.

Ear corn

With ear corn there is about 10 percent more nutrient per dry shelled bushel equivalent. Cattlemen should therefore be willing to pay the full market price for the dry shelled bushel equivalents when buying ear corn. Price adjustments should be made if the buyer harvests and/or hauls the corn grain.

Buyer beware!

Many buyers have paid for some very expensive water when buying high-moisture corn. It is necessary to calculate how many dry shelled bushels the high-moisture grain in question would be equivalent to.

There are many complex shrink and other tables used in the grain industry into which grain merchants have built cost of drying and other charges to determine how much they will pay farmers for a given weight of grain. Those tables should be avoided when trading grain for high-moisture storage.

Dry shelled bushel equivalents

There are two formulas which can be used to calculate what a weight of grain at any given level of dry matter would equal in dry bushel equivalents. As long as you can remember two factors, this can be calculated quickly with a pocket calculator.

For high-moisture ear corn:
Pounds of wet ear corn
X dry matter (expressed as a decimal)
Divide by 59.8
= bushels of dry shelled

Example:
9,000 pounds of ear corn
x .65 dry matter (35% moisture)
divide by 59.8
= 98 bushels dry shelled equivalent

For high-moisture shelled corn:
Pounds of wet shelled corn
x dry matter (expressed as a decimal)
Divide by 47.8
= bushels of dry shelled

Example:
35,000 pounds of wet shelled corn
x .7 dry matter (30% moisture)
Divide by 47.8
= 512 bushels dry shelled equivalent

Silage buyer

At current ear-corn and hay prices, a ton of 65 percent moisture corn silage as fed might be worth as much as $29. But when we deduct the harvesting, hauling, ensiling costs, and dry-matter losses, we have a maximum field value of around $20. So, assuming a yield of 18 tons, the field in our example would have a maximum value of $360 per acre. This is still more than a buyer should need to pay.

As we saw in our example, the seller should get about $225 per acre to be as well off as if selling dry shelled corn. So somewhere between $225 and $360 per acre is where the deal could be struck.

Computer calculations

An alternative to these computations is to use the Penn State extension computer templates. Contact your Penn State county office and request that your figures be run through the "High Moisture Corn Pricing" or "Pricing Corn Silage" programs.

Study Confirms Major Economic Impact Of Farm Show

HARRISBURG (DAUPHIN CO.) — The economic impact of the Pennsylvania State Farm Show exceeds $8 million annually, according to a Pennsylvania State University Study funded by the Farm Show Commission.

Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff said the study demonstrates the importance of the Farm Show to the economy of Pennsylvania.

"Farmers and exhibitors who spend Farm Show week in Harrisburg have often discussed the benefits of the show to Pennsylvania's economy. We now have a numerical measurement of those benefits," Wolff said.

The study, coordinated by Dr. Richard Gitelson of Penn State's Center for Trade and Tourism Research, estimates that members of the general public, livestock exhibitors and commercial exhibitors spent $7.6 million while attending the 1990 show. In addition, $660,000 was spent on non-food items within the Farm show Complex.

Approximately half of the economic impact benefited the seven-county region surrounding the Farm Show Complex (Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry and York Counties).

The study was conducted through brief on-site interviews by graduate students and through questionnaires mailed to survey participants on the Monday following the 1990 Farm Show. Survey participants included show visitors and exhibitors.

The Farm Show Commission requested the study to document the long-standing claim that the Farm Show impacts greatly on the local and state economy.

Other items of interest from the study:

— Visitors to the 1990 show came from all 67 Pennsylvania counties. Seven percent of the visitors were from other states.

— The study provides the first accurate estimate of Farm Show attendance, set at 217,000 for 1990.

— Farm Show attendees spent an estimated $400 million on agriculture-related items in the past two years and plan to spend an additional $267 million on these types of items during 1990.

— Over half the groups attending the 1990 Farm Show included children under 12.

— Three out of four attendees visited the equipment exhibit booths.

The study did not include expenditures by the estimated 15,000 Farm Show visitors who arrived by bus because it was assumed the majority of those people were transported directly to the Complex and returned home without stopping for purchases outside the Farm Show Building.

The Pennsylvania State Farm Show is the largest of 60 commercial and agricultural shows held annually in the Farm Show Complex. Total attendance at all events in the Complex exceeds one million people per year.

Gov. Robert P. Casey has announced more than $8 million in capital improvements to the Farm Show Complex during 1990 and 1991. Replacement of the Large Arena roof was completed this summer.

Improvements to heating, lighting and sound systems are in progress.

In addition, work will soon begin on an 80,000 square foot addition to the exhibition areas.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows·

·5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
·2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645 00 and carries a ·2 yr - 100% parts & labor warranty
·Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00.
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets.
NEW price on ramps & carries - $200.00

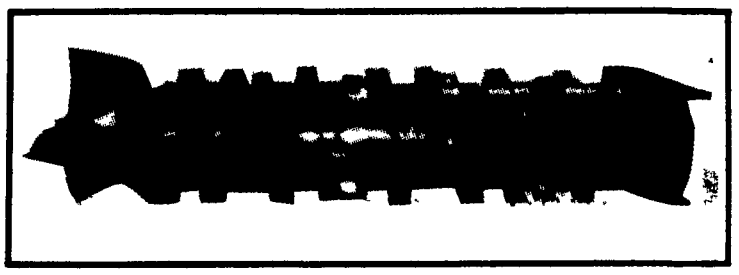
THE AXIAL FLOW SYSTEM PUTS CLEAN, QUALITY GRAIN IN THE TANK...

The Case International XPE Axial-flow Combines feature a single, in-line mounted rotor that gets multiple chances to gently thresh your crop, and then separate it from straw, stalks, pods, and trash. So more of the crop gets harvested, with less damage.

Threshing and separating in a conventional combine takes as many as 16 moving parts. But threshing and separating in the Axial-Flow Combine utilizes just one moving part-- the rotor. It simply does a better job.

Although the Axial-Flow combine is built around the extraordinary performance strengths of the rotor, from header to straw spreader there are no weak links.

Hoober's professional combine servicemen have 14 years experience setting axial flow combines in a large variety of crops in most all types of field and weather conditions. When it comes to the KNOW-HOW of making the Axial-Flow combine perform, Hoober men know how.



THE ROTOR GENTLY THRESHES, SEPARATES AND FEEDS THE CROP FOR EXTRAORDINARY RESULTS IN THE TANK.

Is Your Corn Picker Engine In Shape To Handle This Year's Heavy Crop?

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

Works very well to run corn pickers, crimpers and mower crimper units. We can mount your Wisc. clutch reduction for $1495 or sell the engine with used Wisc. reduction for $1995. Price includes picking up your clutch and delivery of completed unit for you. (Lancaster County Only)

We Only Have A Limited Amount Of These Engines Available w/Reduction
Also Available:
20 HP (Same model) With STD Shaft To Run Hay Balers

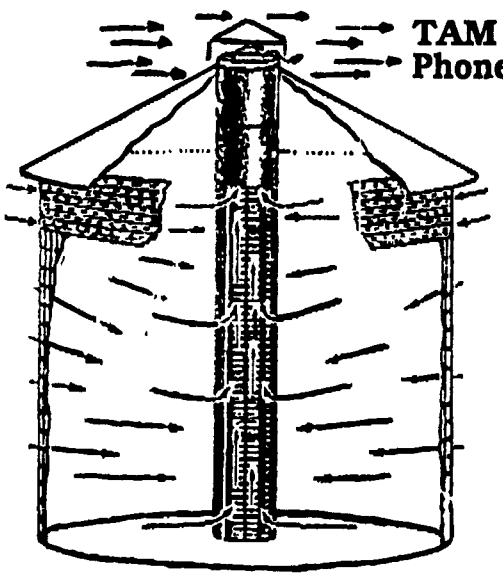
Built-in Positive Ventilation System



TAM AGRI CORP.
Phone: (717) 432-9738

It provides extra ventilation to insure proper drying of the corn. The wind, even a gentle breeze from any direction, blowing past the cupola creates a suction, just as in a chimney. This causes a drop in the air pressure inside the ventilating tube and this in turn pulls air through the corn, up the ventilating tube, and out through the cupola.

PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.

PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT ENERGY?
Mark D. Shaw
Associate Professor of Ag. Engineering

As Yogi Berra would say, "It's deja vu all over again."

Back in the 1970s, we were all concerned about energy. Politicians vowed that never again would the U.S. be held hostage to foreign energy suppliers.

Government energy agencies and private industry investigated ways to conserve energy and develop and use renewable energy sources such as sun, wind, and biomass. But alas, petroleum became readily available, prices went down, and we went happily on our way, forgetting that the energy problem wasn't solved, it just went away for a while.

Actually this isn't quite true. Before 1973, U.S. energy use was growing at the rate of almost 4 percent per year. In 1986 we used the same amount of energy as we did in 1973, a 0 percent growth rate, in spite of a growing population and a growing economy during these 13 years. It has gone up some in the past 3 years, but nothing like before 1973.

If the pre-1973 growth rate had continued, we would have used 139 quadrillion BTU (quads) rather than 81 in 1989. The better insulated buildings, more efficient industrial processes, and higher mileage cars have paid off.

We have accomplished a great deal, even though we really haven't tried very hard, and most of us haven't suffered. We aren't freezing to death in the dark as some gloomy forecasters predicted would happen if our annual energy use didn't continue to grow at 4 percent per year. However, we are still very dependent on imported oil, 8.1 million barrels per day in 1989 compared to 6.2 in 1973.

We can quibble about whether petroleum and natural gas supplies will last for another 25 years, 50 years, or even 100 years at current use rates. But the fact remains, there is only a limited supply of oil and gas in the world, and even more limited supplies in the U.S. As a society, and as individuals, we have to use energy more efficiently, and use renewable energy.

It has been hard to justify most solar energy systems. The cost of solar collectors and storage systems was too high to compete with $1 per gallon fuel oil. But the past 7 weeks have reminded us that the price isn't staying at $1, and I expect to see the price go to $2, $3, and perhaps higher in my lifetime, and I'm 66.

Can we cope with the problem? Sure, but the sooner we start the easier it will be. It's time to look again at the possibility of solar heat for brooding, which consumes about 60 percent of the energy used in the poultry industry, and at solar water heaters. We're concerned with the environment, but we can use coal boilers to provide heat for brooding. It's time to look at heat exchangers to reclaim the heat from refrigeration compressors.

It's time to look again at ventilation systems to be sure that we are getting the right amount of air at a minimum cost in kWh/cfm. Are we using the most efficient ventilation fans and motors, and is the equipment clean and properly maintained?

It's time to check poultry house insulation. A few years ago I figured out that the most economical thickness of insulation in a home, in inches, was the square root of the cost of fuel oil in pennies. When fuel oil was 16 per gallon, 4 inches of insulation was right; at $1.00, 10 inches; and when the price goes to $2.25, 15 inches.

We have to look at vehicles to be sure that we get 30 or 40 miles per gallon rather than 12 or 15.

Can we do it? Yes! Let's get started.

Fanciers Set Fall Show

READING (Berks Co.) — About 1,000 birds will show up — including various types of chicken, large fowl, ducks, turkeys, and geese — along with their exhibitors at the fifth annual Berks Co. Fanciers Association Fall Show.

The show will be held at the 4-H Facility of the Berks Co. Ag Center on Sunday, Oct. 14, beginning at 7 a.m.

The show was created to promote the poultry fanciers, who enjoy raising birds as a hobby, according to show spokesman Allen Ammarell.

For more information on the show, contact Ammarell at (215) 926-1314 or (215) 926-3362.

This was Smith's first time judging at KILE, although he has been a show judge for town fairs.

Following is a list of show placings.

York Fair Names Youth Exhibitors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — In addition to the usual ribbons and premium monies, two youth exhibitors at the York Fair earned an extra measure of recognition.

Robin Shive and Ed Livingston, both 17-year-old beef cattle competitors, were named recipients of the fair's annual outstanding 4-H and FFA exhibitor awards. Each received from the York Fair board a cash award of $300 for use toward education, purchase of breeding stock, or expenses of trip to a related livestock show or convention.

Nine years ago, as a rookie 4-H member, Robin led her first Angus into the York Fair's beef cattle arena. The Seven Valley 4-H'er has taken a fair share of high places since then in club and open show competition, including last year's 4-H reserves champion honor. Robin presently owns about a half-dozen purebred Angus cows and this year's club steer which she will sell after the upcoming roundup.

A senior at Susquehannock High School, Robin plans to pursue a degree in elementary education, probably at York College. Her $300 cash award as the York Fair outstanding 4-H exhibitor is earmarked for use toward her college education. Robin is the daughter Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shive, Seven Valleys R1.

Ed Livingston began showing in York Fair FFA competition four years ago, as a freshman member of the Dover FFA. His steer project was named the FFA grand champion and took reserve in the open class competition. For his fitting accomplishments, Ed also got the nod for the master fitter title. Among his other winning FFA project entries at the fair were hogs, hay, and a variety of garden produce items.

With his $300 cash award, Ed will attend the national FFA convention and the American Royal Livestock show in Kansas City, Missouri during early November.

A state winner for agriculture in 4-H, the young Dover area farmer will also take part in the November annual 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Ed Livingston serves as president of the Dover FFA chapter and previously was the chapter parliamentarian. He plans to major in agriculture at Penn State, with the goal of someday operating his own beef and grain farm. Ed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Livingston, Davidsburg Road, Dover.

The York Fair outstanding youth awards are selected from written applications and personal interviews before a committee of fair and agribusiness representatives. Selection basis is on York Fair participation, leadership, and activities.

Top Dressage Riders Selected At Md. 4-H Show

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Carroll County riders captured most of the top honors at the eleventh annual Maryland 4-H Dressage Show and Combined Test.

The event was held Sept. 9 at the new Schooley Mill Park equestrian facility near Highland (Howard County). It attracted 58 contestants from eigtht counties. Both Western and English-style riders participated.

Gabe Zepp, 15, of Shipley and his horse, Golden Dream, a Quarter Horse crossbred gelding, received a silver trophy for championship honors in both senior training level and first level dressage. They earned a rosette as reserve champions on their first level combined test score, which incorporates both dressage and stadium jumping.

Robin Wagner, 16, of Hampstead and her horse, Centabblo, a Thoroughbred gelding, took home a silver championship trophy for their first level combined test score. They earned a rosette as reserve champions in first level dressage.

Alicia Wells, 14, of Sykesville and her pony, Special Edition, a crossbred gelding, won championships in both junior training level dressage and combined test score.

Kristen Lewis, 13, of Fountain Valley and her crossbred pony, Iced Tea, took reserve champion honors in both categories.

Beth Bryant, 14, of Pleasant Valley and her horse, The Sure Thing, a crossbred gelding, captured championship honors in senior training level combined test score and the reserve champion rosette in senior training level dressage.

Becky Adkins, 16, of Westminster and her horse, Easington, a Thoroughbred gelding, earned the reserve champion rosette for their senior training level combined test score.

Northrup King Releases Hybrids

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Northrup King has announced the release of the following new hybrids and varieties for the 1991 planting season:

Corn

Northrup King's corn research program is conducted at nine research centers across the U.S. covering all major maturity zones. NK plant breeders dedicate themselves to developing superior hybrids adapted to specific growing areas. Northrup King's breeding program includes yellow dent and waxy corn hybrids. For 1991 planting, Northrup King announces the release of seven new corn hybrids.

N4428 (100-104 RM)

A new hybrid with outstanding yield potential for its maturity. N4428 features heavy test weight grain, very good standability and a girthy ear with good ear retention. It is well adapted for higher plant densities and is best suited for medium to heavier soils.

N4747wx (104-108 RM)

A new 105 relative maturity waxy corn hybrid with high yield potential. N4747wx has very good stalk and root strength. It has good grain quality with heavy test weight from a fixed, blocky type ear. N4747wx is best adapted for medium to heavy soils.

N6330 (108-112 RM)

N6330 is a flex ear, high yielding hybrid for a wide range of growing environments. It has excellent yield potential and fast drydown. N6330 produces a medium-tall plant with good silage potential.

N6440wx (111-115 RM)

A new waxy with outstanding yield potential, good standability and good drouth tolerance. N6440wx produces a girthy ear with excellent ear retention. It is recommended for higher plant densities.

N8318 (119-124 RM)

A superior, high-yielding full-season hybrid with exceptional standability. N8318 drys down fast after a long grain fill period. It has very good tolerance to drouth.

N8565W (119-123 RM)

A full-season white corn hybrid with excellent grain quality, heavy test weight and good milling characteristics. This new high yield hybrid also has very good standability and root strength. The flex ear of N8565W allows adaptation to varying plant populations. It also has good stay green and drouth tolerance.

N9190 (128-132 RM)

Dealers Tell About Good Trade-Ins

GIBSON CITY, Ill. — There aren't many jobs on the farm that pay $1,000 or more per day, but Phil Eischen can name you one. To take top-notch care of your combine inside and out could return you $1,000 a day at trade-in time.

Eischen, of Muller Eischen Implement, Algona, Iowa, is one of the farm equipment dealers surveyed by M & W Gear Company with the question: How can a farmer maximize the value of his trade-in equipment?"The first step is to keep things under cover," Eischen said. "Weather is enemy number one of machinery."

Eischen said it is also essential to maintain equipment, both internally and externally. "The most neglected item we see on tractors and combines is the air filter. Even though they are somewhat expensive, they are a necessary part of a well-maintained machine and can easily pay for themselves in the long run," he said.

Here's how Eischen arrives at that $1,000 per day return.

"A five-year-old $100,000 combine can be worth $15,000 to $20,000 more at trade time if it's well taken care of," he said. "It takes only about three good days a year to handle all the inside and outside maintenance. In five years, that's a total of 15 days. So, you earn better than $1,000 per day, less the cost of replacement parts."

Mike Copp of Copp Farm Supply, a short-line dealership at Columbia City, Indiana, seconds the recommendation to keep equipment under cover as a way to enhance appearance and trade-in value. Go by the book — the manual — for instructions on storage and maintenance, he said. "The manual has important information, especially on how to prepare equipment for storage."

Copp said that neglect of lubrication is the biggest problem he sees on trade-in equipment.

Another way to increase trade-in value is to trade while your equipment still has current technology and usefulness, said Bob Carley of McGrath, Inc., Gibson City, Illinois. Also, make sure it's field ready before trading, he said.

Keep a log

Your equipment requires proper care from day one, said Alan Morr of Don Morr Equipment Company, Oakley, Illinois. He said coolant systems are the most neglected items he encounters. The second most neglected is the air cleaner. On implements, wheel bearings are often neglected.

"A farmer can really improve the value of his equipment by doing all the recommended maintenance and keeping a log book of his servicing," Morr said. "When a dealer sees an up-to-date log book, he's likely to offer considerably more on a trade because he knows the machine has had good care. We have some customers who take such good care of their equipment that there's a waiting list to buy their trade-ins. They get paid for their efforts many times over."

How much more?

Here are some estimates of the added value for equipment that is well-maintained.

On an 8-to 10-year-old $50,000 tractor, the difference can be $10,000, said Eischen. "There are all kinds of buyers looking for used equipment, but they want it to look good if they are going to pay top price."

Alan Morr in Illinois recently sold a 1973 model tractor, in excellent condition, for $9,000. That same model tractor, in poor shape, failed to sell at $4,200 in a farm sale. He says the difference was mostly in general appearance.

Morr estimates that a 1980 model, 150-160 horsepower tractor in mint shape and with reasonable hours would be worth $20,000 today. That same model, if showing obvious neglect, would only bring about half that.

He says a well-maintained 1980 model, 6-row combine would be valued in the upper $30,000 range. If poorly maintained, it would be in the lower $20,000 category.

On a 5- to 8-year forage wagon, expect up to a couple thousand dollars more value for a well-maintained piece of equipment, said Copp.

Sure thing

There aren't many sure things in farming today. Prices of grain and livestock bounce all over the place, and weather is even more fickle than commodity prices.

But one thing is certain, you will get paid well at trade-in time if you take continuing, conscientious care of your equipment, said John Smith, vice president of marketing at M & W Gear Company.

Beachley-Hardy Honors Salesmen

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Beachley-Hardy Seed Company recently presented top sales awards to four of its regional representatives, according to Frank Welch, marketing director.

James Dodd, of Orchard Park, NY, was named Salesman of the Year for the seed firm. The award payed tribute to overall performance, including increasing new business, outstanding customer service, and strong communications skills. Dodd joined Beachley-Hardy in 1988, covering western New York and northwest Pennsylvania. He earned a B.S. from Buffalo State University, and prior to Beachley-Hardy, he worked for Erie Niagara Farm Supply, Buffalo, NY.

Carlton Dukes, of Denton, MD, received the award for the highest percentage increase in sales. Dukes has covered the Delmarva Peninsula for the past four years.

Additionally, two men were cited for their performance with W-L Alfalfas, which are handled exclusively in the Northeast by Beachley-Hardy.

Peter Johnson, of Mifflinburg, PA, was honored as the sales representative associated with the winning entry in the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers' Contest. Johnson joined Beachley-Hardy two years ago, and represents north central Pennsylvania.

John Meyers, of Quarryville, PA, was the recipient of the top alfalfa sales award, and along with Johnson, attended the W-L Alfalfa Annual Meeting in Dana Point, CA. Meyers has represented Beachley-Hardy since 1987, and currently covers southeastern Pennsylvania, north central Maryland, and New Jersey.

Doebler's Announces New Hybrids

JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Six new corn hybrids have been released by Doebler's Hybrids for 1991 planting, it is announced here by company president Ted Doebler.

According to the veteran seed producer, three are second generation hybrids of popular varieties now marketed by Doebler's.

Relative maturity of the new varieties range from the 121-day 86A-2 to the 81-day 29XA, he said.

"But seed supply of the new hybrids will be limited this fall," Doebler predicted, as harvest continues on Doebler farms.

The new corn hybrids include:

• Doebler 75X-2, an advanced version of Pennsylvania's all-time corn champion that produced an official 281.6 bushels in 1976.

• Doebler 86XA-2, with outstanding standability and production.

• Doebler 69XP, a healthier version of 66XP that showed a marked increase in yields.

• Doebler 61X, an all-new mid-season hybrid that shelled up to 15 more bushels than old favorites of same relative maturity.

• Doebler 650A-3, a vigorous three-way that outproduced namesake in trials.

• Doebler 29XA, an improved version of 29X bred for shortest season area of New York and Pennsylvania.

Ted Doebler emphasized selections were made only after extensive testing in research trials and on hundreds of Eastern farms.

Northrup King

excellent grain to stover ratios for top quality silage. N9190 has exceptional drouth tolerance. For silage or earlage uses only.

Soybeans

Northrup King's soybean breeding program is conducted at four major research stations in the U.S. Its focus is developing high yielding, disease resistant soybean varieties adapted to the major maturity groups. Special attention is given to developing cyst nematode resistance for the northern maturities. Last year Northrup King released S 31-33, an early Group III variety with cyst nematode resistance. This year Northrup King released nine varieties; five with cyst nematode resistance including two Group IV varieties.

S 00-88

Our earliest soybean for the North! This Group 00 soybean is adapted to all row widths and has excellent stress tolerance. S 00-88 is tolerant to iron deficiency chlorosis and has field tolerance to Phytophthora root rot. Plant no deeper than 1 1/2 inches.

S 25-15

This new Mid-Group II soybean has high yield potential and can be grown in most row widths. S 25-15 is stress tolerant and has good emergence. It is best adapted for well-drained soils.

S 28-18

A new Late-Group II variety, S 28-18 is moderately tolerant to brown stem rot, has very good standability and is adapted to most row widths. It is best adapted to well-drained soils.

S 29-39

A new late Group II soybean with outstanding yield potential. S 29-39 is resistant to Phytophthora root rot (races 1-3 and 6-10) and has good field tolerance to other known races. It can be grown in most row widths and is stress tolerant. S29-39 produces a yellow hilum grain.

S 43-34

S 43-34 is a high yielding cyst nematode resistant variety (races 3 and 4) with good drouth tolerance. This early Group IV soybean has very good standability and can be used in all row widths.

A high yielding late Group IV soybean with good stress tolerance. S48-84 is moderately resistant to stem canker and to soybean cyst nematode (races 3 and 4). It can be used in narrow rows and has very good shatter resistance.

S 61-89

A strong standing variety with resistance to races 3, 4 and 5 of soybean cyst nematode. S 61-89 is an early Group VI variety that is also resistant to root knot nematode (M. incognita) and frogeye leafspot. It has very good stress tolerance and excellent resistance to shattering.

S 64-23

A good looking soybean with a good disease package. S 64-23 is a mid-Group VI variety that is resistant to soybean cyst nematode (races 3 and 4), root knot nematode (M. incognita), lance nematode and frogeye leaf spot. It is adapted to most soil types.

S 83-30

This early to mid-Group VIII soybean is high yielding and strong standing. It is resistant to soybean cyst nematode (race 3), root knot nematode (M. incognita) and stem canker. It also has resistance to lance nematode. S83-80 has very good standability.

Sorghum

Northrup King's sorghum breeding activities are headquartered at its new research center in Victoria, TX. There plant breeders focus on developing high yielding hybrids with disease resistance and resistance to Biotype E greenbug. A special emphasis is also being put on white and yellow grain types. Northrup King has two recent sorghum releases available for 1991.

KS 710

KS 710 is a high yielding Biotype E greenbug resistant hybrid with excellent standability and exceptional plant health. This medium full season hybrid offers very good drouth tolerance and threshability. It has bronze colored grain and hetero-yellow endosperm.

KS 714Y

A medium full season hybrid with Biotype E greenburg resistance and cream colored grain. KS 714Y is a drouth tolerant hybrid with very good standability and threshability. It also has good digestibility for better feed conversion.

Alfalfa

Northrup King's alfalfa breeding program in Stanton, MN and Othello, WA focuses on developing varieties with multiple pest resistance, winterhardiness, multileaflet characteristics and high relative feed value. Northrup King announces the release of two top producing alfalfa varieties.

MultiKing 1

This advanced generation multi-leaflet variety from Northrup King is becoming the alfalfa industry leader. Plants of MultiKing 1 carry the multi-leaflet genetic trait; extra leaflets develop at the petiole where ordinarily only trifoliate leaves appear. Tests show MultiKing 1 has high relative feed value and high yield potential as well as resistance to seven major pests (bacterial wilt, Fusarium wilt, Phytophthora root rot, anthracnose (race 1), spotted alfalfa aphid, stem nematode and verticillium wilt). It has excellent winterhardiness for medium to long term stands. MultiKing 1 is for the grower who wants to produce high quality forage.

Crockett

Crockett alfalfa from Northrup King is specifically bred for the South. It has resistance to six major pests: bacterial wilt, Fusarium wilt, Phytophthora root rot, common leaf spot, anthracnose (race 1) and spotted alfalfa aphid. Crocket matures early and has high yield potential. It can be used in short, medium or long rotations and has very fast recovery for repeated harvests.

Wheat

Northrup King's soft red winter wheat research is conducted at Bay, AR with a satellite testing and selection program in Hartsville, SC. Yield, disease resistance and agronomic performance are the key elements of Northrup Kings wheat breeding program.

COKER 9877

COKER 9877 is a new soft red winter wheat from Northrup King. It is a late maturity variety that is very resistant to leaf rust and stem rust, moderately resistant to Septoria tritici and resistant to most races of powdery mildew. COKER 9877 has medium tall plants and good straw strength.

Tobacco

K 149

K 149 is an excellent choice for areas with Granville wilt and black shank problems. It has high resistance to both diseases and is also resistant to root-knot nematode (M. incognita). K 149 has a low number of ground suckers with good curability and mechanical harvestability. K 149 is available as pelleted seed.

For more information about these or any of Northrup King's seed products contact your local Northrup King dealer or call 1-800-AGVISOR to talk with your Northrup King regional agronomist.

New M-F 100-140 hp tractors

Advanced QUADRAM Power makes a difference you can hear and feel.

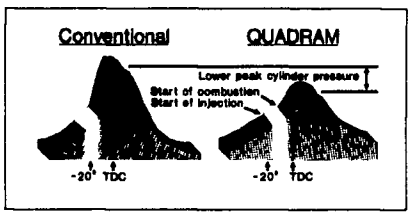
Massey-Ferguson is setting the standards for the 90s with three new 100 to 140 hp high-performance tractors that deliver improved engine torque characteristics and fuel efficiency with lower noise levels and lower engine stress.

Revolutionary new engines

The key to quick, smooth, efficient combustion is complete air and fuel mixing.

The Quadram cylinders produce an intense swirl of air for quick and thorough mixing of the fuel and air after injection. As a result, injection can be delayed closer to top-dead-center (TDC).

A unique 4-lobed (QUAD) bowl on the crown of the piston maximizes the amount of air swirl in the combustion chamber.



Lower peak cylinder pressures and stresses result when less combustion takes place prior to TDC.

Perkins 1000 Series engines have a very small amount of combustion taking place prior to TDC. As a result, the engines are more efficient and powerful, with much lower noise and vibration.

You'll notice the Quadram difference right away. The engine runs smoother and quieter — up to 50% quieter than competitive engines.

But the only way you can really appreciate the M-F Quadram advantage is to actually see and hear the tractors perform. So even if you aren't currently in the market for a tractor of this size, you owe it to yourself to see the latest in agricultural engine technology.

Europe Corn Tour Provides Insight

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The European Community (EC) may soon surpass the United States in producing new non-food products from farm commodities, according to a team of 12 U.S. university agricultral researchers just back from Europe.

The U.S. researchers said an annual $130 million investment in applied research by government and private industry could put the EC in the lead in developing new products and new markets.

The U.S. research team participated in the Eurotech Corn Tour and Conference co-sponsored by ICI Americas Inc. and the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). According to tour leader and Alan Kemper, NCGA president, the tour and conference were designed to promote and exchange information on alternative uses of corn with key European agribusiness firms and researchers.

The EC's greatly expanded research program, called European Collective Linkage of Agriculture and Industry through Research, (ECLAIR) involves 46 research projects at 360 institutions.

"Of all the projects we were exposed to in Europe, ECLAIR was the most impressive," Kemper said. "There's no doubt that the U.S. is going to have to fund new farm product research, or we'll lose markets for our ag commodities."

"In the U.S., utilization research is at an all-time low — by both government and private industry," said Dr. Richard Hahn, director of the Kansas Value Added Center, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas.

Kemper says hope for additional U.S. research funding is found in both the U.S. House and Senate versions of the 1990 farm bill. "There's a gap between public research and private development and production of agriculturally derived products, and the proposed legislation is designed to narrow that gap."

Several new products currently produced and marketed by ICI and other companies in Europe were observed by the U.S. research team.

"ICI as a company utilizes commodities in every way possible. Corn is used in several areas including pharmaceutical and biological products," said Jerry Quinn, director of market development, ICI Agricultural Products. "We are extremely interested in learning more about new uses and available technology. We've gained knowledge about both on this tour."

Quorn™ an alternative food source that is low in fat and high in fiber and protein, is made by utilizing glucose as a component in a fermentation process. The product is marketed in Europe in meat pies, casseroles, and by itself. Quorn™ is produced and marketed by Marlow Foods, a subsidiary of ICI.

Two new biodegradable plastic products were also introduced to the research group. ICI's PHBV™ (polyhydroxybutyrate-hydroxyvalerate), made from corn, wheat or potato carbohydrates, is presently being produced in Europe. The finished product can be used to hold liquid material just like polyethylene, except it will fully degrade under either aerobic or anaerobic conditions.

Another new product viewed by the group was a thermoplastic made from a starch resin and trademarked as Mater-Bi™. Products have been made with as much as 60 perecent to 90 percent starch by weight. The material is not soluble in water, but is fully biodegradable. The product will be marketed through Novamont, a subsidiary of the Montedison Group of Ferruzzi.

The 13-day tour included stops in Brussels, London and Paris. Accompanying the scientists were NCGA grower leaders and staff, ICI Americas Inc. officials, a U.S. Department of Agriculture representative, and a representative from the U.S. Feed Grains Council.

"The mixture of production and utilization scientists, government officials and producers was excellent," Hahn said. "The interaction was beneficial and we all gained a better appreciation for the necessary role of each group."

East Earl Man Finds Success Near Home

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — After making the rounds this past summer showing his sheep in a number of Lancaster County community fair livestock competitions, Jeff Martin of East Earl finally captured an elusive trophy — one of his flock was declared grand champion of all breeds.

Last week, a Suffolk ewe lamb Martin entered in the New Holland Fair sheep show was declared to be the best of breeds in the type judging portion of the afternoon show.

Ironically, Martin had shown sheep at several other Lancaster-area breed competitions, but came full circle to his home-field sheep show in order to garner the trophy he sought.

The young man also chalked up a second win over this fair season as champion showman. He had taken the title during the earlier Ephrata Fair sheep show.

According to officials, champion showman is an honor more reflective of personal abilities. The quality of sheep shown at fairs is more indirectly reflective of the showman's abilities.

Martin, a member of the Grassland FFA chapter, said he was pleased with the honors bestowed him and his sheep. He said that 1990 has been his 11th year showing sheep at New Holland and has been his best year also.

Martin's ewe took the title also during one of the heaviest years of competition.

According to Clifford Day, extension specialist, the number of total entries in this year's New Holland sheep show doubled from last year, because the breed competition has been opened up to include adults. In the past, the whole sheep show was a youth competition.

Taking reserve grand champion of all breeds was an aged Dorset ewe shown by Troy Bollinger.

In the market lamb competition Juanita Shirk's heavyweight entry was named champion of the 17 entries. The reserve champion lamb was a middleweight shown by her brother Jevon.

In the Farm Show preview class, Troy Bollinger's 90-pound entry was named champion while Kendall Reiff's 83-pounder was named reserve champion.

The judge of the show was Bill MacCauley, a Chester County Suffolk breeder.

Jeff Martim holds the rosette across the back of his grand champion of breeds Suffolk ewe lamb while Ashley Hurst presents the trophy.

Troy Bollinger's aged Dorset ewe is named reserve grand champion of breeding sheep at the New Holland Fair.

Farm Association Recognizes Leaders

LEWISTOWN (Miffin Co.)—Outstanding leadership and dedication highlighted the Mifflin County Farmers' Association annual meeting held September 24 at the Penns Valley Christian Retreat Center in Ferguson Valley.

Joe Buck, regional organization director, after complimenting the association on making their membership goal of 375, presented a Star Award to the director of member relations, Elrose Glick. President Joe Laughlin received a Star Award as well as Mark Ellinger for an outstanding job in governmental relations. Buck recognized Elrose Glick for signing up five new members and Ken Loht for obtaining 23 new members. Buck also emphasized that the 50 new members gained are 15 percent of Mifflin County's total membership. Dave Esh earned his Star Award as director of member service.

The Mifflin County Farmers' Association recognized Ken Loht "for outstanding performance in reaching the 1990 membership goal." Deb Filson received a certificate "for six years of dedication as Mifflin County's Newsletter Editor."

Committee reports included one on governmental relations by Mark Ellinger. Ellinger briefly listed many of the issues PFA is working on on both the state and national levels. Issues being addressed on the state level are opposition to the "rails for trails" legislation, game code amendments, wetlands regulations, returnable container legislation, and the right to farm market protection. On nutrient management, Ellinger said that farmers "want protection from pollution liability for farmers using best nutrient management practices" and that neither bill presently in the state legislature addresses this.

Issues addressed nationally include capital gains, health insurance deductions, estate tax laws, animal welfare, and wetlands.

Locally, the governmental relations committee has been working on getting all candidates together one evening for a "Measure the Candidates" night.

In his talk on member relations,

Farm Association

District Director Elrose Glick spoke of the importance of the association's system, where "farmers can do together what they can't do alone." Glick emphasized the "need to take time to evaluate our programs, to see whether our organization is accomplishing what it is supposed to accomplish." Glick urged all members to work successfully by deciding what they want, deciding if and how they are going to implement their decision, and then simply to do it.

In other business, Keith Todd, eastern sales director for Safemark, noted that Safemark experienced a 5 percent increase in sales, with Mifflin County's sales increasing 24 percent. He warned of a dramatic price increase in tires, tubes, and antifreeze because of the Middle East crisis.

Results from board member elections held earlier in the evening were announced. Elected to serve a three-year term were Stanford Dunk from Derry Township, Joe Laughlin from Granville Township, and Pauline Glick from Menno Township. Keith Leinaweaver of Bratton Township and David Stuck from Union Township will serve two-year terms. Serving a one-year term will be Craig Fisher from Wayne Township.

Six policy recommendations were discussed, amended, and adopted:

- We recommend that Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) oppose HB 1850 as it pertains to the regulating of the handling of all "animals, birds, or reptiles."
- We recommend that Members Service Corporation should be put back into the hands of the voting delegates and that all Safemark dealers be members of the organization.
- We recommend that when a new associate member is rejected for BC/BS that the county be reimbursed all membership monies from the state.
- We recommend legislation to ban smoking in indoor public eating places.
- We recommend that PFA work to abolish political action committees.
- We recommend that articles pertaining to food safety be published based on scientific data rather than special interest groups' scare tactics.

The New Deutz-Allis 9100 Tractors.

Put your hands on one. . .and see for yourself what sets them apart See just how much more performance, power and comfort you can have.

All three models—9190 with 193 PTO hp, 9170 with 172 PTO hp, and 9150 with 150 PTO hp—give you the heft and power to handle big tillage jobs To make short work of big acreage.

At the heart of each is the legendary Deutz air-cooled engine, known the world over for exceptional ability to stay on the job With no liquid cooling parts, which typically account for 40% of liquid-cooled engine downtime, this engine can save you considerable time and money

And putting that reliable power to work is a field-proven transmission of massive strength With 18 forward speed choices, including nine in the working range of 3.0 to 7.5 mph Plus three powershifts under load in each gear.

Step inside the spacious cab and you'll experience comfort and visibility you didn't think possible. Plus a full array of convenient controls and monitors All to help boost your productivity to a higher level

Ask your Deutz-Allis dealer to show you the new powerhorses See what sets them apart from the ordinary.

HEALTHY PEOPLE AND HEALTHY LIVESTOCK COME FROM HEALTHY FOOD AND FEED which in turn comes from healthy soil. Healthy soil does not come from chemicals, which is the reason for bugs, dieseases, compaction and toxic feed.

Many farmers have learned that their livestock do much better on non toxic feed. We have a huge demand for non toxic corn, soybeans, and speltz by the semi-load at $3.00 per bu. for corn, $8.00 for yellow beans, $12.00 for white beans, and $3.20 for speltz. Can't get enough.

Our Nutri Carb fertilizer detoxifies your soil in one year. It is the fastest thing we know of. It is very high in precious carbon and over 100 minerals and trace elements, the missing things. Apply it this fall, the sooner the better, for non toxic crops next year. It doesn't dissipate. It lasts for years, which will help you in the forthcoming recession or depression when your income will be lower and your oil related products (chemicals) will be higher. "Where there is no vision the people perish." Ask for a pack of literature for 50¢, just to prove your sincerity. Or call from 7:15 to about 8:30 AM.
